SCORE 4 IN SIXTH
Also Bombard Gumbert And Coffman in Second Battle

Yankee Stadium, New York.—(AP)—The Yankees clubbed lanky Cliff Melton to the showers in five innings, continued their heavy bombardment against Harry Gumbert and Dick Coffman as they duplicated their 8 to 1 opening game margin over the Giants in the world series today. A crowd of 57,675 saw the world champions make it two straight triumphs with only two more needed to clinch the series.

First Inning
Giants.—Moore fanned on three pitches. Bartell dropped a Texas leaguer into left field for two bases. Hoag nearly making the catch. Ott lashed a single to right, scoring Bartell. Fourth Inning

The crowd gave Bartell a big hand when the peppery Giant shortstop came to the plate. Bartell singled sharply past Rolfe for his second straight hit, but died on first when Ott lifted a high fly to Hoag. No runs, one hit, no errors, one left.

Fifth Inning
Giants.—Selkirk popped to Ott on third base. Lazzari singled past Whitehead for the first hit off Melton. Ruffing grounded into a double play on the first pitch. Bartell to Whitehead to McCarthy. No runs, one hit, no errors, none left.

Seventh Inning
Giants.—Crossetti popped to Bartell, who backed into short left field. The court was three and two on Rolfe when the Yankee third baseman rolled out to McCarthy. Unassisted, DiMaggio had to dodge another of Melton's pitches to avoid being beaned. Then DiMaggio lined a single to center. Gehrig walked on four straight falls after Melton had him in the hole with two strikes. Dickey was called out on two strikes by the count two and two. The crowd gave Melton a big hand as the rookie southpaw pulled him self out of a hole. No runs, one hit, no errors, two left.

7 New Subjects Are Submitted To Legislature

LaFollette Amends Call After Solons Agree on 8-Hour Sessions

WILL ADJOURN OCT. 16

Age Pensions, Agriculture, Housing and Codes Included

Madison.—(AP)—Governor LaFollette amended his call of the special session today, handing the legislature seven new subjects on which he wants laws enacted before sine die adjournment at noon Oct. 16.

The proclamation followed acceptance by both houses late yesterday of a resolution binding the legislature to work eight hours a day, except Sunday, until the adjournment date. After clearing their calendars, both houses went into informal session today to fulfill the 8-hour rule.

The joint finance committee, from which all bills will be submitted under the new rules, convened shortly before noon to prepare recommendations on agriculture, trade practice codes, a state commerce bureau, housing, a chain store tax and a moratorium on farm indebtedness.

These bills were prepared by the administration in anticipation of an extension of the call. Another measure, dealing with reorganization of state government, was under revision.

Correct Relief Bill
The senate corrected a clerical error in a $3,000,000 relief bill today and sent it to the assembly for concurrence. Both houses originally voted for adoption by big majorities and passage was assured.

On motion of Senator George Hampe (D), Milwaukee, the senate expunged its engrossment vote on the Thompson-Peterson highway safety bill, amended it to allot $800,000 instead of $600,000 for snow removal, and laid the measure over until tomorrow.

The amendment, offered by Senator Allen Busby (P), Milwaukee, includes city streets as well as country roads for a share in the snow removal allotment. A substitute bill, incorporating Senator John Cashman's driver's license plan, also was introduced and laid over. The assembly killed Cashman's proposal earlier this week.

Discuss Time-Clocks
The assembly, having no other business before it, discussed the feasibility of installing time-clocks in both houses to assure compliance with the 8-hour work day rule and finally rejected the resolution sponsored by Assemblyman Charles Budlong (R), Marinette.

The new rules, barring introduction of bills, resolutions and other business by individuals, also put the assembly into a long discussion on the advisability of Senator Cashman's resolution memorializing President Roosevelt and congress to exert their best efforts to keep the United States out of war. Lieutenant Governor Henry Gunderson (P), Portage, ruled the resolution was not germane.

May Goodland Applies Brakes To City Spending

Urges Strict Economy Until Budget for 1938 Is Set

Mayor John Goodland, Jr., at last night's council meeting applied the brakes to city expenditures and urged strict economy in all city departments until the new budget is set.

Aldermen again decided that the council would make no effort to buy the old post office property for city use but voted to offer the Lieber Lumber company $5,000 for land to be used in the extension of N. Division street and also to return $1,010 paid to the city by Gertrude Heibel for the old Zuehlke home at 1225 W. Prospect avenue.

In his plea for economy, the mayor urged committees to work out a plan to take care of men who will soon apply for relief. "Last year over $40,000 was spent for relief," the mayor said. "It is an imposition on taxpayers to be forced to feed indigents all winter when they have been working all summer. These men should be forced to work out their budgets so that the city has something to show for the expenditure."

When resolutions and petitions for new sewers, sidewalks and water mains were read by the clerk, the mayor warned aldermen, "It is an absolute necessity that we stop

Simmons Labor Union Starts $45,000 Suit

Kenosha.—(AP)—The Simmons Labor union, affiliated with the CIO, brought suit for $45,000 today against the American Federation of Labor. A hearing was set for Oct. 25 before Circuit Judge E. B. Belden.

The suit was a counter claim to the A. F. of L. suit to take over $15,000 in the local union's treasury. Judge Belden has impounded the money pending a hearing.

The new suit followed expulsion by the A. F. of L. of Emil Costello, president of the Simmons union, the suspension of the union's A. F. of L. charter and the impounding of the $15,000.

The Costello union charged the A. F. of L. has failed to carry out a promise to organize the furniture industry and other Simmons plants and has continued to collect a per capita tax of 35 cents a member. The union asks return of $30,000 collected under the per capita tax.

Three Convicts Slug Guard and Use Another as Hostage in Making Escape

Joliet, Ill.—(AP)—Three convicts slugged a guard into unconsciousness and temporarily used another for a hostage in making an escape from the Stateville prison honor farm early today.

The felons, all serving terms for robbery, waylaid J. D. Black during the change of shifts, and then forced F. R. Brunton, another guard, to accompany them. Brunton, in whose car the convicts fled, was dumped out of the car two miles north of the prison. He was unarmed, prison authorities said.

The attack on the guards occurred in a dormitory in which 150 trustees were sleeping. The three convicts fled Black with a rock. The prisoners, whose escape was flashed over police radios in Illinois and nearby states, were

WINS IN ONTARIO

Toronto (Canadian Press)—Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn and his liberal government were assured today of at least a 63 to 23 control of the Ontario legislature by a near record victory at the polls.

From 1,500,000 ballots cast in yesterday's general election the anti-CIO executive and his following drew a support that neared their record of three years ago when they swept into power.

Senator Thomas (D - Utah) among others, indicated he would advise Mr. Roosevelt to call a special session. The president said yesterday at Hyde Park he would reach a decision within a week.

Such a session would begin a new attack on prime administration objectives, among them crop control, wage-hour and child labor laws, government reorganizing and creation of regional planning boards. It would begin between Nov. 8 and Nov. 16.

Senator Thomas, who is slated to head the senate labor committee, said he would seek enactment of wage and hour legislation in the form it passed the senate during the last session.

Wage Hour Measure
The wage-hour bill, which would give labor standards board power to establish minimum wages of not less than 40 cents an hour and a maximum work week of not less than 40 hours, was steered through the senate by Justice Hugo L. Black, then chairman of the senate labor committee. The measure was held up in the house by the rules committee.

Thomas said he would oppose modification of the bill to provide for flat standards for all industry. Senator Minton (D-Ind.) urged senate and house agriculture committees to get crop control legislation in shape for quick action whether congress reconvenes in November or January.

A special session, he added, "would be worse than none" unless a definite program was ready.

Committee House
Senate and house agriculture committees, however, were at work on a program that might delay submission of new farm legislation until well past mid-November.

A senate subcommittee is holding hearings in the west, and another group will begin a tour of the south Oct. 15. These hearings, designed to collect data on which to base the new crop control bill, will not end until Nov. 1.

Members of the senate committee expect to use as a nucleus for their farm bill the Pope-McGill proposal drafted a few months ago by farm organizations and the agriculture department.

It would combine a crop control system similar to that of the AAA with an "ever-normal granary" program whereby surplus crops would be stored up for use in lean years.

Milwaukee Elected Master Brewers' Head

Milwaukee.—(AP)—John W. Russert, Milwaukee, was elected president of the Master Brewers' Association of America at a business session of the organization's annual convention today.

The delegates selected Buffalo, N. Y., for the 1938 convention city. Russert succeeds Herman A. Rosenshush, and is the only son to follow a father in the president's chair in the history of the association. His father, Charles F. Russert, Boston, deceased, was president of the association from 1908 to 1912.

The convention is scheduled to close tomorrow.

Exports of War Supplies Show Big Increase in U. S.

Washington.—(AP)—Exports of war supplies approved by the state department in September totaled $18,089,337, almost seven times the volume during August, records showed today.

More than half, or $10,057,920 worth, went to soviet Russia, whose purchases included armor plate for one or more battleships, power and ammunition.

State department officials disclosed they have dropped their objections to helping Russia assemble battleships equipped with 10-inch guns.

Freedom Threatened. Veterans are Told

Chateau-Thierry, France.—(AP)—Warnings that the principles of freedom for which the United States fought in the World war are again gravely menaced came today from speakers dedicating a monument to the American soldiers who repulsed the German drive at Chateau-Thierry 18 years ago.

General James G. Harbord, wartime commander of the Second division, and other notables speaking at the ceremonies asserted that the ideals upheld during the World war are still alive and that the forces of democracy are still prepared to shed blood in their defense.

New Deal Gets Set for Quick Action on Bills

Will Push Measures Either At Special or Regular Session

CROP CONTROL FIRST

Utah Senator to Seek Enactment of Wage-Hour Legislation

Washington.—(AP)—Administration supporters in congress said today they are prepared to push President Roosevelt's legislative program to quick enactment at either a special session or the regular meeting in January.

Senator Thomas (D - Utah) among others, indicated he would advise Mr. Roosevelt to call a special session. The president said yesterday at Hyde Park he would reach a decision within a week.

Emergency Session at Tokio as U.S. Supports League Against Japan

No Immediate Answer To Washington Is Indicated

POLICY UNCHANGED

'Completely Bewildered,' High Official Declares

Rome.—(AP)—United States condemnation of Japan as the aggressor in China was laid to British influence today by Editor Virginio Gayda in the Italian newspaper, Giornale d'Italia.

Gayda, who often reflects official Italian attitude, defended Japanese military operations in China as "purifying."

He asserted that only self-interest was behind "thundering protests" of other nations.

"Britain is against Japan but prefers to have other make moves for her," he said.

"Since 1922, Japan has made war periodically on China to restore order and insure defense of her vital interests. Since then Britain against this war, brings up the problem at Geneva and tries to inflame the minds of Americans, thus sidestepping direct action of her own."

Tokio.—(AP)—Japanese statesmen were called into emergency session at the foreign office today immediately on receipt of news from Washington that the United States had condemned Japan's invasion of China as a violation of her treaty obligations.

No immediate reply was expected to the formal statement of the American state department, accusing Japan of violation of the nine power pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

The Domei (Japanese) news agency quoted unnamed foreign officials as saying "Japan is confident she will prove equal to the contingency" even in the face of any concrete measures the powers might take.

The foreign office felt certain, in the light of the state department statement, Domei said, that the Washington powers would meet in answer to a call from the League of Nations but "in the event of such convocation Japan will not participate." Japan is a signatory of the nine-power treaty.

No Matter What Decision
"No matter what decision such a conference should take," Domei quoted the foreign office officials, "whether moral pressure, concrete measures or material sanctions against Japan, the empire's fundamental policy will remain unchanged."

The Japanese government was taken completely off guard by the American condemnation, one of the highest government officials said.

"We are badly surprised and completely bewildered," he declared. "We had been certain prior to this

Ransom Note Is Received, Report

U. S. Officer Refuses to Comment on Rumored Demand in Ross Case

Chicago.—(AP)—A ransom note was reported to have been received today from kidnapers of Charles Ross, well-to-do retired greeting card manufacturer.

Earl Connelly, investigator for the department of justice, refused to confirm or deny receipt of the note. Ross recently paved the way for communication with the kidnapers by announcing her readiness to cooperate with them for her husband's safe return.

Usually reliable authorities said the note had been mailed to a Mrs. Breckenridge, a friend of the Ross family, in care of general delivery. It contained an enclosure in which were directions for payment of the ransom, the amount of which was not made known.

Ross, 72, was kidnaped Sept. 25 near Sycamore, Ill., by three men who stopped a car in which Ross was riding with his former secretary.

The letter, naming Mrs. Breckenridge to act as intermediary, was mailed from Savannah, Ill. The enclosure was addressed to Mrs. Ross.

How Mrs. Breckenridge learned the letter was waiting for her at general delivery in the old post office building was not made known immediately.

Marinette Woman Is Worthy Grand Matron

Madison.—(AP)—Mrs. Mary Miller, Marinette, was elected worthy grand matron and Ward Rowbottom, Kenosha, was named worthy grand patron of the Wisconsin chapter, Order of Eastern Star, at the annual convention here today.

Other officers chosen: Lettie Dearborn, Walworth, associate grand matron; Dorothy Ekstrom Peterson, Superior, grand conductress; Sayda S. Peterson, Madison, associate grand conductress; Otilie S. Brunke, Milwaukee, grand secretary and Ina J. Reid, Waukesha, grand secretary.

The chapter was to vote late today on the office of associated grand patron.

Treaties in Brief
Washington.—(AP)—Here is the gist of the two treaties mentioned in the United States' condemnation of Japanese action in China:

The Briand - Kellogg pact: Signed by Japan, the United States and 56 other nations, it obligates the signatories to renounce war as an instrument of national policy.

The nine-power pact: Makes binding on the signers respect for the sovereignty of China and maintenance of equal commercial opportunities for all nations in China. Japan and the United States were among the signers.

An older document, the 1902 Boxer protocol, pledged signers to keep open the line of communication between Peking and the sea.

Federation Heads Urge Boycott on Japanese Goods

Washington.—(AP)—Secretary Hull indicated today this government's firm intention of participating in a nine-power conference to consider the Far Eastern conflict.

The secretary of state said at his press conference that no invitation to such a parity thus far has been received, but that naturally, as one of the signatories to the nine-power treaty guaranteeing China's territorial sovereignty, he "presumed" this government would accept it and when the bid is received.

The conference is being convoked on the recommendation of the League of Nations assembly to consider possible measures to halt the Sino-Japanese conflict.

Hull said this government has received no communication proposing that the conference be held in Washington, birthplace of the nine-power treaty, and he declined to comment on suggestions that this city might be designated. Such suggestions have been made unofficially in both Geneva and London.

Expect Invitation
The secretary of state pointed out that the league action looking toward the summoning of such a conference was directed to signatories of the pact which are members of the League of Nations.

These signatories in turn are being relied upon to invite those parties to the treaty which are not members of the league. Among the latter is the United States.

These formalities account for the fact that the United States thus far has not formally been invited. Officials here indicated, however, that they expected the bid to be forthcoming shortly.

American consent to participate was regarded generally as a foregone conclusion after the state department issued its stinging denunciation of Japan last night as a treaty violator.

Washington.—(AP)—The United States government, branding Japan a treaty violator, ranted itself solidly alongside the League of Nations today in its effort to stop hostilities in the Far East.

Further American action appeared imminent in consequence of a formal state department pronouncement last night condemning the imperial Japanese government for its undeclared war in China.

This is expected to take the form of immediate consent to participate in a nine-power conference to consider possible new steps in the crisis.

The state department acted swiftly to give practical force to President Roosevelt's pledge of cooperation with all peace-loving nations to end what he described as the prevailing reign of international lawlessness.

His stinging indictment of Japanese aggression was timed to coincide with similar action by the League of Nations assembly.

Violation of Treaty
In the light of the unfolding developments in the Far East," the state department said, "the government of the United States has been forced to the conclusion that the action of Japan in China is inconsistent with the principles which should govern the relationships between nations and is contrary to the provisions of the nine-power treaty of Feb. 6, 1922, regarding principles and policies to be followed in matters concerning China, and to those of the Kellogg-Briand pact of Aug. 27, 1928."

It marked the second time in a little more than five years that the United States has resorted to this extreme in its Far Eastern policy.

London.—(AP)—Two British steamers were captured off the northern Spanish coast by a Spanish insurgent trawler, the admiralty said today. The vessels were the Yorkbrook and the Dover Abbey.

The admiralty said "presumably" the ships were within territorial waters. It was pointed out that such vessels had been warned repeatedly they entered territorial waters at their own risk.

France And Britain Start To Exchange Views With U.S. on Sino-Japanese War

See Possibility of Having Conference in Washington

London—(AP)—Britain and France began today a preliminary exchange of views with the United States on the Sino-Japanese war, with the possibility that the conference will be held in Washington.

Officials would not say whether a flat request had been made to hold the 9-power parley in Washington, but they did point to suitability of the American capital which in 1922 was the scene of negotiations for the 9-power treaty, guaranteeing territorial integrity of China.

There were indications that Washington had been asked whether, in its opinion, the 9-power parley should be held there.

The United States state department's formal condemnation of Japan was regarded as virtual acceptance of the League of Nations invitation to signatories of the 9-power Washington pact to consider ways of making good their guarantee of the territorial integrity of China.

Showdown in Europe

President Roosevelt's call Tuesday for concerted action against aggressor nations and his state department's declaration yesterday against Japan were construed as a partial shouldering of the Oriental trouble, permitting Britain, with France, to concentrate on a showdown in the European crisis that grew out of the 14-month-old civil war in Spain.

Their ominously unclarified threat of "decisive action" was held over Italy unless Premier Mussolini replied quickly to the week-old invitation to confer with France and Britain on withdrawal of foreign soldiers from the Spanish peninsula.

A curt communique, issued after yesterday's long conference between Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden and French Ambassador Charles Corbin, said:

"The two governments have agreed on the desirability of receiving an early reply from Italy."

Give Rome More Time

Informed sources said at the time that France and Britain were, in effect, giving Rome 24 hours to respond to the invitation.

There was a growing conviction in authoritative quarters that a stern display of Anglo-French "force" might be the only way to get Italy's blackshirt legions out of Spain.

The Washington state department's condemnation of Japan was greeted with enthusiasm in London, Paris and Geneva but less warmly welcomed in Rome.

London morning newspapers banner-lined their front pages with such interpretations as: "Japan Branded by U. S. A. as Aggressor."

The French were delighted to see the United States lined up with European democracies and a Paris foreign office spokesman called France's reaction "unanimous and unqualified" approval.

Italians generally remained non-committal until given a lead by the U. S. The state department's conclusions seemed in sharp conflict with an Italian tendency to justify Japan's campaign.

City Scales Condemned

One Scale in September

One scale was condemned for repairs and four containers were found to be incorrect in Appleton during September, according to the monthly report of Joseph A. Hodgins, city scaler of weights and measures. One complaint was investigated.

A total of 25 scales were sealed and 9 were adjusted. Visits made during the period to test weights totaled 76 and of a total of 243 tests made 239 were found correct. Computing scales tested numbered 14, wagon scales 4 and miscellaneous scales numbered 2. Forty-three gas pumps were retested.

America Supports League in Stand Against Japanese

Similar action was taken in 1932 by Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson when he urged the call Japan to account for its invasion of Manchuria.

Lines Up With League

Significantly, the outspoken pronouncement said this government's conclusions with respect to Japan in the present crisis are "in general accord with those of the assembly of the League of Nations."

Informed observers interpreted this to mean that Secretary Hull and his advisers already have decided to accept an anticipated invitation to participate in a conference of nine-power treaty signatories being convened under league auspices.

Such a parley was proposed by the league assembly to deal further with the Sino-Japanese conflict. The United States is a party to the accord and as such is interested in guarding it against violations.

State department officials are represented on the other hand as feeling that, while consultations among the signatories are eminently proper in the circumstances, any action looking toward restoration of peace in the Orient is the responsibility of all nations.

League Must Decide

If this view prevails, some observers say, it may mean the proposed nine-power conference will act principally as an advisory agency, leaving to the league to determine and execute any specific application of its neutrality act.

that the United States understood the situation better than any other country in the world.

"We felt that the American public was completely enlightened on all issues and was traditionally neutral. The prevailing sentiment of the Japanese government is that there is no reason for the action. We completely fail to understand the American action which is bound to make a very bad impression on the Japanese public."

Tokyo Excited

Newspaper extras appeared as soon as the bare text of the Washington statement was available. Excitement spread through the city and crowds clustered about the newspapers, grabbing the papers as fast as they were printed.

The condemnation, coupled with President Roosevelt's Chicago speech urging "concerted action" against aggressor nations, monopolized newspapers and both official and unofficial discussion throughout the empire. As much space was devoted to the American moves as to the actual progress of hostilities in the three-month-old undeclared war with China.

Foreign diplomatic circles in Tokyo described the American action as a "bombshell." Attaches of the United States embassy kept complete silence but representatives of other world powers frankly raised the question of "decisive action."

"Does this mean action? What form will it take?"

The first editorial comment in the Japan Times this afternoon described the American action as "too idealistic and based primarily on sympathy for a weaker nation."

Discuss Problems Of Rural Schools

Round Table Parleys Held At Meeting of Association in Waupaca

Waupaca—A round table discussion of the problems of rural school teachers was held by members of the Land of Lakes Superintendents and Supervisors association which convened in Waupaca Monday.

Testing, teacher tenure and certification of teachers were among the problems. Twenty members of the association were present, representing Langlade, Vilas, Price, Forest, Marathon, Taylor, Portage, Lincoln, Oneida and Waupaca counties. C. H. Bachner, Waupaca county superintendent of schools is president of the group.

The morning session was held in the county board room of the courthouse. At noon dinner was served the association at Hotel Dobbins. Weyauwega, and the afternoon meeting was held in the hotel.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Johnson of Iowa and Mrs. F. E. Darling of Waupaca were Tuesday for Madison where they will attend the Grand Chapter session of the Eastern Star.

program calculated to end the hostilities.

Authoritative persons professed to see in the state department's denunciation of Japan an indication of the extent the United States may be prepared to go in cooperating with the league.

This collaboration, they contend, is to be limited strictly, for the moment at least, to application of the utmost moral pressure, parallel to but completely independent of league action.

This course would be calculated to keep the United States rigidly aloof from assumption of responsibilities which go with membership in the league.

Affects Neutrality Act?

Identical procedure was followed by the state department when it formally endorsed on Sept. 23 the league's denunciation of Japan for the aerial bombing of noncombatant populations in China.

A high official acknowledged, however, that if the United States gives its unqualified support to the league's action yesterday, it will mean indefinite sidetracking of this country's neutrality law in the Sino-Japanese conflict.

This law is designed to apply restrictions on munitions exports and financial aid to belligerents equally.

President Roosevelt has refrained from invoking it so far on the ground that a technical state of war does not yet exist. Actually, however, he is said to have been motivated by a desire not to give Japan and advantage by depriving China of sorely needed exports.

The league assembly yesterday called formally on its members to do nothing which would hamper China. If the United States publicly subscribes to this stand, it necessarily would be committed not to apply its neutrality act.

Dust Storm Sifts Out Richer Soil, Leaves Only Sand

Wind Erosion Skimming Very Cream of Great Plains, Expert Says

A dust storm is like a giant sieve as far as soil is concerned, according to the soil conservation service in a bulletin to R. C. Swanson, Outagamie county agricultural agent.

It sifts out the lighter, richer soil particles and often carries them for hundreds of miles, leaving the coarser, less fertile grains to skip and roll along the ground surface or pile up as dunes.

Last spring soil-conservation men collected soil material laid down in Iowa by a dust storm that originated in the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles. They also gathered samples from a sand dune formed by the same storm near its origin. Comparison of the two soils reveals in striking fashion the sifting action of wind erosion.

The dust sample from Iowa—500 miles from the source of the storm—contained 10 times as much organic matter as the dune sand left behind and was far richer in plant food. Furthermore, this windborne material was finer in texture and more fertile than a third soil sample taken from virgin prairie grassland.

"Wind erosion," says H. H. Bennett, chief of the soil conservation service, "is skimming the very cream of our great plains soil. In its wake it is leaving choking sterile sand that so often kills crops and gathers in dunes."

Columbian Squires Will Open 2-Day Convention

Wild Rose, Wis.—(AP)—A two-day state conference of the Columbian Squire organization, junior society of the Knights of Columbus, will open Saturday at nearby Silver Lake resort. Among those on the program are B. A. Kennedy, Prairie du Chien, state deputy; Mgr. William Reding, Wisconsin Rapids; Dr. Earl Doyle, Waukesha; Dr. E. P. Sloan, Wausau; George Nichols, Madison; E. M. Johnson, Green Bay, and J. E. Helfert, Beaver Dam, chairman.

Depositors Will Get New Dividend

Old National Bank of Waupaca to Make 12 Per Cent Payment

Waupaca—Bernard M. Mulvaney, receiver of the Old National bank of Waupaca, has announced that under authority of the comptroller of the currency, a 12 per cent dividend on all of the liabilities of the Old National bank of Waupaca has been declared to all depositors of that institution who have proven their claims. This now makes a total of 97 per cent paid to the depositors.

Delivery of checks will be made by the receiver and his assistants in the receiver's old office at the rear of the First National bank building at Waupaca beginning at 9 o'clock Monday morning, Oct. 11, and continuing to Oct. 16, inclusive. Claimants must present their receivers' certificate so that there will be no delay incurred in the delivery of checks. From and after Oct. 16, for a limited time, it is expected that a representative of the receiver's office will be at the old office of the receiver at the rear of the First National bank building on Fridays and Saturdays of each week. Later the checks may be obtained at the First National bank of Clintonville, to which place the receivership of the Old National bank of Waupaca has been moved.

Mayor Goodland Applies Brakes To City Spending

spending money; let's name a limit somewhere. I know most of this work is necessary but there must be a stopping point."

When the motion to offer the Lieber Lumber company $6,500 for property to extend N. Division street and including two lots adjoining the fair grounds, dissenting votes were cast by Aldermen Bautigam and Knuijt. Alderman Deland, chairman of the public grounds and buildings committee, explained that the offer would include a triangular strip of land, 30 feet wide at Franklin street and extending to a point at Washington street. The offer stipulated that the lumber company would not be assessed benefits and damages on the proposed street improvement until a permanent pavement is installed.

The decision to return money paid for the Zuehlke home to Gertrude Heibel was opposed by Alderman Franke, Knuijt, McGillan and Vanderheyden. Alderman Vanderheyden said that the contract had been completed and the money paid and should not be returned unless an offer is made to the city by the purchaser.

Alderman Deland told the council that the woman purchased the property with the understanding that the house could be moved to another site. Later it was discovered that valuable trees would have to be cut down to allow the building to be moved. The city attorney ruled that the contract could be voided by agreement of both parties involved.

Urges Reconsideration

Fred F. Wetengel again appeared before the council to urge the purchase of the old post office building on Oneida street. He said that he had sent a telegram to Washington, D. C., asking that action be deferred on the present bids to give the council another chance to buy.

A telegram from Washington yesterday advised him that the matter will be held in abeyance for several days, he said.

Councilmen refused to consider buying the structure even after Mr. Wetengel pointed out that, because of a deed in 1851 giving him the Lincoln school property to the city "to be used as a school site and for no other purpose," the Lincoln school could not be used as a city hall.

Lack of a reversion clause in the old deed to the city may leave an opening to secure the Lincoln school property for a city hall but the attorney was not prepared to offer an opinion last night. The problem is being investigated by the attorney.

Wants Report

Following the discussion on expenditures, Mayor Goodland suggested that a report of work done and money spent during the year by various city departments be compiled and distributed to taxpayers to give them an idea of what the city is doing. Alderman Harriman suggested that changes in city ordinances, of interest to taxpayers, be included in the report. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Mrs. Lorraine Krock, S. Oneida street, was refused a license to operate a tavern when the mayor declared a ballot by voting no. Aldermen Deland, Franke, Keller, Kubitz, Steinhauser and Thompson cast dissenting votes. The decision was given because of the city's policy against granting licenses to women bartenders.

Referred Back

No action was taken on the police and license committee's recommendation that the Strutz tavern license be revoked. Police Chief George T. Prim recommended that the license be revoked because of two court counts against the proprietor involving selling beer to minors and employing a woman operator. The problem was referred back to the committee for investigation.

The council instructed the chief of police to notify junk dealers to make application for licenses to comply with the state law, granted five operators licenses and granted licenses to the Elks and Zion Lutheran bowling alleys.

Limit Construction

After considerable discussion on the advisability of installing sewer and water mains, the council decided to put in the improvements only where absolutely necessary in cases where construction on new homes had been started. The building inspector was instructed to notify prospective home builders, when application is made for a permit, whether or not the property has been improved.

Property owners appeared before the council and demanded a storm sewer be installed from the N. Drew street-Grant street intersection earlier to connect with the Mead street sewer before Feb. 1. Aldermen voted to apply for a WPA project to install the sewer and also referred the matter to the street and bridge committee for consideration.

Warns Pranksters Against Turning in False Fire Alarms

Fire Chief George P. McGillan issued a warning to pranksters today after firemen answered a false alarm about 9:30 last night in the Third ward. Several false alarms have been turned in from that section of the city in recent weeks, he said.

Pointing out that such calls may cause an accident in which people might be killed, he warned that anyone caught will be prosecuted under the law. There is a heavy penalty inflicted on persons turning in false alarms, he said.

Jap War Minister In Bitter Attack On Other Powers

Says Major Nations Preach Justice but Sell Dum-Dum Bullets

Tokyo—(AP)—General Gen Sugiyama, the Japanese minister of war, today accused world powers of preaching justice and humanity for China and, at the same time, "directly converting every international law" by selling China dum-dum bullets for use against Japanese soldiers.

The war minister declared the munitions were reaching China through Hong Kong, the British crown colony on the south China coast, and "other routes."

It was the first interview the grizzled veteran ever had given, and he began it by telling the Associated Press that "Japan is deeply grateful for the essential neutrality of the American nation."

He declined to comment directly on the action of the United States Department of State in condemning Japan for waging undeclared war against China in violation of the 9-power pact guaranteeing China's territorial integrity.

"How could I," he said, "firmly believe in the traditional American fair play and I want to take this opportunity to say so—despite everything."

Displays Dum-Dums

Sugiyama said there was a great deal of misunderstanding in the world concerning Japan's aims.

"At the same time there are countries talking loftily about justice and humanity," he said sarcastically, "but are supplying China with these."

Dramatically, with these words, the war minister unrolled two cloth bags and poured out a cascade of twisted, jagged bits of steel and copper. Some resembled bullets but most were too irregular to resemble anything.

"These are dum-dum bullets," Sugiyama declared. "Each was taken from the body of a dead Japanese soldier. Each was manufactured in a foreign country and we are able to identify the makers."

The bullets were labelled as to type and manufacturer but the war minister declined to permit the names of the nations to be printed. Pointing to the scraps of metal spread out before him, he said:

Contravert Law

"The same countries that are talking high justice are permitting these bullets to be sold and delivered to China, although they are directly contravening every international law."

Summarizing the situation in the 3-month-old undeclared war, the minister said organized Chinese resistance was collapsing rapidly in the north "but the Shanghai troops have been offering the sternest resistance. The terrain which is crisscrossed by canals favors the Chinese and they obviously have been preparing for war for several years."

He said that he did not know "how" far the Japanese army would go on both fronts but added "I want reiterated we do not want any Chinese territory."

The war minister declared that China was using propaganda at home in an effort to accomplish unification by creating the image of Japan as China's common enemy.

Over 500 Chinese Reported Killed In Japanese Raids

News Agency Reports 8 Nipponese Planes Shot Down

BY JAMES A. MILLS

Shanghai—(AP)—More than 500 Chinese civilians were reported today to have been killed by mass bombing raids of Japanese warplanes on the rich southern province of Kwantung.

The Chinese Central News agency reported that eight Japanese planes, including two huge bombers, were shot down by a surprise Chinese defense of the strategic military railway linking Canton on the south coast and the Yangtze river port of Hankow.

The massed Japanese flights took to the air yesterday just as the League of Nations and the United States were condemning Japan for violation of her treaty obligations by invasion of Chinese territory.

A dozen railway centers were bombed along the route from Canton to Hankow, Chinese dispatches said, killing and wounding more than 300 non-combatants in those towns alone.

In northern Kwantung province the raiding planes were said to have caused several hundred more casualties. Twenty bombs fell on the departmental capital city of Shichow alone, demolishing some 30 dwellings.

Bomb Village

While the massed flight of 35 Japanese planes followed the railroad to the north, dropping bombs on each village as they came to it, Chinese said a spirited attack by 70 my. Abroad they are declaring Japan wants territory.

"Apparently they are more successful abroad than at home. There is much misunderstanding in the world regarding Japan's aims. To state them simply, we are firmly determined to punish the elements in China responsible for anti-Japanism."

When asked what he meant by punishment, the veteran soldier replied:

"I mean smashing them until they surrender completely—until they hold their hands high and cry for Japan to cease."

Clarion Editors Seek Candid Camera Shots

Amateur photographers at Appleton High school will have an opportunity to see their own pictures in print in the student life section of the Clarion, high school year book. Chinese planes kept the line from being more than slightly damaged. Out of the 38 Japanese planes, Chinese said eight were shot down while the Japanese were able to take a toll of but two Chinese pursuit ships.

At Shanghai, where a desperate battle was raging through the rice paddies northwest of the city, the Japanese flagship Idzumo today sent countless shells screaming over the international settlement in an effort to blast the Chinese out of stubbornly defended positions on the Chapei and North station battle fronts.

Shells fell in steady succession near the sector guarded by the United States marines on the northern boundary of the settlement. The American troops were forced to be constantly on the alert to avoid the hail of lead.

Governor's Strategy Arouses Legislators but Gets No Results

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—While spectators who filled all galleries were either amused or sorrowful, according to their respective temperaments, Wisconsin's legislators this week proposed to involve themselves in a frenzied tangle of partisanship from which it is doubtful that they will be able to extricate themselves before final adjournment.

In the opinion of unprejudiced and seasoned observers, only one thing was clear in the muddled, confused situation in which the lawmakers found themselves Tuesday. That is: that the issues on which the battles for the control of the state government will be fought next year are being formed now.

Last weekend there were those who still held out some hope that the special session would find time to act upon other matters than relief and a highway program, only two enumerated in the governor's original call. Yesterday the prevailing sentiment was best expressed by two senate veterans, Herman J. Severson of Iowa and John E. Cashman of Denmark, both Progressives, and both having almost two decades of legislative service behind them.

Said Severson: "To serve the state best, we should adjourn and go home now." And Cashman agreed.

This week's fight started Monday when Governor LaFollette, in a formal, written message, told both houses what he has been saying verbally for weeks, that the legislature during the past two weeks has not been paying attention to business.

Legislators Angered
The critical tone of the gubernatorial message riled sensitive legislators, but even more maddening was the astute manner in which the governor played his hand. In effect he put the legislature on the "spot", in a position in which the lawmakers were helpless, no matter what action they took.

The governor informed the houses that he would amend his call and send down further legislation on condition that they would get down to work for eight hours a day, six days a week, amend all house rules to rush procedure, and if they agreed beforehand to adjourn Oct. 16.

Thus, cleverly, the chief executive put the whole responsibility for a program on the shoulders of the legislators. He dangled an attractive series of bills before them, including codes, farm relief, old age pension, public welfare reorganization, chain store tax, reorganization of the department of agriculture, and creation of a department of commerce.

By demanding an agreement for early adjournment, the governor eliminated the necessity of explaining a long session, which he criticized heartily in a previous administration.

LaFollette Strategy
In addition, his proposed program satisfies most of the urgent demands which have been made upon him. If the legislature accepts his challenge, and fails to enact the program in the few days remaining, it will be the fault of the legislature. And if it refuses, he can again excuse himself from responsibility.

That the neatness of his strategy did not escape the legislators became evident immediately. Senator Joseph Clancy, Racine Democrat, promptly labeled the governor "a cheap politician," which term was repeated in the assembly yesterday by Maurice Fitzsimmons, Fond du Lac Democrat, to whom the LaFollette opposition delegated the job of replying.

To Fitzsimmons the governor's tactics represented "an insult to the memory of the authors of our constitution," and was "the most flagrant case of buck-passing and gubernatorial insincerity that it has ever been the privilege of the people of Wisconsin to witness."

In the meantime both houses intermittently debated half-heartedly over the questions for which they are supposed to be in emergency session, relief and a highway safety program.

Favor New Plan To Connect City And Superhighway

Propose Extension of Railroad Street to Highway 125

A proposed city connection with Superhighway 41 southwest of the city by extending Railroad street to Highway 125 at a point just east of the Outagamie County line was favored by members of the county highway committee, city officials and representatives of the Appleton Chamber of Commerce at a meeting with division officials of the state highway commission yesterday afternoon at the city hall.

Under the plan W. Haskell street would be improved from Prospect avenue to Railroad street. The latter street would be improved to the city limits and then extended to Highway 125 which connects with the superhighway and needs no improving.

A meeting with the state highway commission on the proposal will be arranged in the near future. Cost of the connection, including purchase of rights of way from the city limits to the junction with Highway 125 at the county line, would be approximately $100,000, it was brought out. The length of the street extension would be .93 of a mile, which the improvements of the streets would involve about .42 of a mile.

A direct extension of College avenue, while thought an ideal connection, was deferred because of the cost which was estimated at about $300,000.

Two alternate routes also discussed but were believed unfeasible. One was making the connection over Carver street and the other by bringing the connection into the city on Highway 125 under the Chicago and Northwestern, Ashland division, railroad tracks at a point about 500 feet east of Carver street.

Committees Plan First Drama at Joint Meeting

Costume, property and stage committees of the Junior Play group of Appleton High school held their first meeting yesterday at the school.

Plans for the presentation of "The Boy the Piped Piper Forgot," one-act play to be given by the group, were discussed. The play is based upon the story, "The Piped Piper of Hamelin," by Robert Browning, and will be directed by Miss Ruth McKennan, dramatic coach and speech instructor.

Members of the committees follow: costume, Loretta Martell, Martha Wells, Audrey Lemmer, La Verne Christensen and Katherine Schuh; stage, Howard Orblison, John Killoran and Anthony Koehn; property, Allen Baurain, Paul Vandenberg and William Wolfe. Reader will be Lois Boon.

Teachers to Convene in Appleton Tonight

Miss Margaret Abraham, history instructor at Appleton High school and president of the Northwestern Wisconsin Education association, will preside at a meeting of the executive committee at 6:15 tonight at Hotel Northern.

Plans for the association convention to be held at Appleton April 8 will be discussed. Fifteen committee members from representative schools will meet. About 1,500 teachers are expected here in April. H. H. Heible, Appleton High school principal, is also a member of the executive committee.

Girls Didn't Leave Home Willingly, Mothers Believe

The mothers of the three girls, Jean and Jane Dunford, 15-year-old twins, and Margaret Mader, 14, who have been missing from their homes since Friday night, Sept. 24, are certain their daughters did not "just run away" and that there is some other explanation for their absence.

Mrs. M. A. Dunford, mother of the twins, seated in the living room of her neat, pleasant home at 1423 W. Lawrence street, declared yesterday afternoon: "If they could get to a phone, they would call us."

Mrs. Henry Mader, mother of Margaret, who was visiting Mrs. Dunford, agreed that they "had no reasons to leave like that."

A young girl who says she has known the three missing girls for a month and spoken to them frequently as she passed them on the street, reported to police that last Thursday she saw them on the second floor of the Zuehlke building. She was drinking at the fountain, she relates, when she noticed the twins and Margaret Mader standing nearby.

"We've been to Chicago," she quoted one of them as saying, "and now we're afraid to go home."

Mother Called Police

The girl said she did not know at the time that police were looking for the trio. When she returned home and mentioned the incident, her mother called the department.

And thus the case stands, with almost two weeks having elapsed since the twins and "Margie" left the Dunford home about 11 o'clock on a Friday night after making candy for three young boys about their same age who had left a short while earlier.

"There have been lots of false reports circulating around," Mrs. Dunford said, "but no real word about them. We are worried sick. . . . There are so many reasons why they couldn't have left purposely."

She and her husband attended a wedding dance that night, Mrs. Dunford said, leaving the three girls to entertain the three youths. Joyce Dunford, 10-year-old younger sister of the twins, was also downstairs with the girls.

Boys Left at 10:45

"The boys were supposed to be home at 9 o'clock," the mother explained yesterday, "but the candy wasn't finished at that time. They left to ask their parents if they could stay longer and then returned to eat the candy. They went home about 10:45, the three boys together."

The twins apparently offered to walk home with Margie, the mother said, and the three girls probably started on their way about 11 o'clock.

"To our knowledge, that's the last that's been seen of them. No one saw them leave the house or walk along the street that night."

If the girls had planned to run away, they would not have invited the three youths over that night and made candy for them, Mrs. Dunford believes. Nor would they have left the house without extra clothes, when there were plenty of garments hanging upstairs in their closet, and without money, when there was $30 in cash in the house which they could have taken.

'Happy and Gay'

"I know they didn't skip out," the mother said emphatically. "They were very happy and gay that night as we were leaving for the dance. They had no reason to go."

The twins never mentioned leaving home, Mrs. Dunford stated, except perhaps in fun. "They were good girls and hard workers. I did object to their reading too many stories in cheap magazines because I don't believe they are fit for grown-ups; they are too point-blank."

The fact that the girls only a day or two before they disappeared were talking happily about coming events they would attend is further evidence, the mothers believe, that they had not planned to leave home.

"Margie told several of her girl friends that she was going to the high school dance that Saturday night," Mrs. Mader said yesterday. "Some of them even called for her and I know she was excited about going."

Jane Had New Coat

Jane was anxious about getting a new coat her mother had bought her in time for the football game between Appleton and Sheboygan high schools played last Saturday. Her mother said. Alterations were being made in the coat and Jane had called the store on Thursday, the day before she disappeared, and asked when it would be ready.

The girls have been reported seen at dances, on the street, and in a store in this community. But both mothers hold fast to their beliefs that the girls would come home if it were possible and that such reports are imaginative.

Jane worked in a millinery shop last summer here in Appleton and Jean at home. Besides their younger sister, Joyce, they have an older brother, Michael, 19. Their father works for a paper mill.

Margie has two sisters and six brothers and is the second youngest in the family. Her father is a carpenter.

Braille Books to be Made by WPA Workers

Making of Braille books for the blind will be started next Monday as a WPA project sponsored by the city, according to relief officials. About a dozen persons will be employed on the project, some of them to be transferred from the WPA sewing project. A room in the Odd Fellows building has been secured for the project. Books made by the WPA workers will be placed in the libraries of blind institutions.

The maintenance committee was instructed to investigate a possible increase in tax rates for the transfer of handicapped children to the Orthopedic and Lincoln schools. A bill submitted by the Maurice Schumacher company, general contractors, for $79,330.50 was allowed.

Wettengel Claims Lincoln Site Must Be Used as School

A copy of a letter addressed to the mayor and common council from Fred F. Wettengel stating the west half of the Lincoln school property was decided to the city in 1851 as a school site "forever" was read at a meeting of the board of education in the Lincoln school last evening and the city attorney was instructed to determine the legal status of the title.

City officials contemplated use of the Lincoln school as a city hall upon completion of the new high school building. Wettengel favors purchase of the old post office site and building for a city hall, according to his letter.

Dirt on the new high school site will be distributed and the grounds graded as soon as possible as an extra to the general contract provided the architect's will waive a 6 per cent fee. Handling the job as an extra to the major contract eliminates delay incidental to PWA approval, the building committee reported.

A 30-inch catch basin will be installed between the academic section and the manual arts department of the new high school for drainage purposes and a catch basin will be installed in the intramural field to drain water in the spring. A recommendation from the building committee that leaded glass windows be installed on all four sides of the tower was approved.

Japan Violated Treaty Pledges, Lawrence Claims

Says Militarists Will Find Country Quarantined By Other Nations

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington—President Roosevelt has raised a question to which the whole world can give answer by looking at the record. It is this: What is the signature of the Japanese government worth? Can the word of the Japanese emperor and Japanese parliament again be accepted in the councils of civilized society? The issue is a simple one. It is written in a treaty which has now been made a "scrap of paper" by a government that has heretofore asked to be considered the equal of other powers. The pact is usually called "The Nine Power Treaty" because nine nations, including Japan, signed it. Article I reads in full text as follows:

"The contracting powers, other than China, agree:

(1) To respect the sovereignty, the independence, and the territorial and administrative integrity of China;

(2) To provide the fullest and most unembarrassed opportunity to China to develop and maintain for herself an effective and stable government.

(3) To use their influence for the purpose of establishing and maintaining the principle of equal opportunity for the commerce and industry of all nations throughout the territory of China.

(4) To refrain from taking advantage of conditions in China to seek special rights or privileges which would abridge the rights of subjects or citizens of friendly states, and from countenancing action inimical to the security of such states."

Can it be said that Japan has respected the "sovereignty" or "independence" or the "territorial and administrative integrity" of China? Likewise Japan has countenanced action inimical to the subjects and citizens of friendly states, as, for instance, in the bombing of Shanghai and Nanking.

The nations which signed the treaty—Japan, the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, the Netherlands, China and Portugal—entered into a solemn pledge to consult one another when trouble arose in China. The wording of the pledge given in Article VII is significant. The exact text follows:

Powers Agreed

"The contracting powers agree that, whenever a situation arises which in the opinion of any one of them involves the application of the stipulations of the present treaty, and renders desirable discussion of such application, there shall be full and frank communication between the contracting powers concerned."

Japan ignored this promise and did not consult any other powers before her sudden invasion of China. But even more reprehensible is Japan's violation of another treaty, broader and more extensive in the number of nations which are bound to it. This is called the Briand-Kellogg treaty to outlaw war, a pact signed by virtually all nations of the world, including Japan. In that treaty, Japan gave her word in Article I not to engage in hostilities. The exact text follows:

"The high contracting parties solemnly declare in the names of their respective peoples that they condemn recourse to war for the solution of international controversies, and renounce it as an instrument of national policy in their relations with one another."

Then came, in Article II of the same treaty, this specific promise:

"The high contracting parties agree that the settlement or solution of all disputes or conflicts of whatever nature or of whatever origin they may be, which may arise among them, shall never be sought except by pacific means."

Certainly the sanctity of treaties must be preserved or the world has no system of law or morality to depend upon and instead there is international anarchy. When, therefore, a government like that of Japan flagrantly and deliberately violates treaty pledges, shall the rest of the governments sit silent? The League of Nations in Geneva has answered the question by formulating a report denouncing Japan's course. The United States, though not a member of the league, lends moral support to what the league contemplates by issuing at Washington an independent declaration branding Japan an aggressor nation.

Here, for the first time, the whole world unites in declaring a nation to be the aggressor which violates the territorial integrity of another nation. The situation differs from 1914 because when Germany made a scrap of paper of her pledge to respect the neutrality of Belgium, Europe was forced into war. Today, physical force is not offered as a means of punishing the violator of treaties. Instead, the whole world tries moral force—universal condemnation.

It might be asked of what avail are mere words of denunciation. When they come from all the governments of the world, they impress the peoples of the world. Japan's products must find a market or her government goes bankrupt. Japan's credit must be preserved throughout the world or she faces serious internal troubles. The aggressors in Japan will find the liberals challenging them to maintain Japan as a solvent institution when all the world rises in its wrath against Japan. The "war party" and militarists in Japan will see themselves quarantined by the other nations of the world. For the first time in world history, the United States, Great Britain and France stand together as the principal exponents of the doctrine of moral force. The Kellogg-Briand treaty at last has its real test, and if the gesture of today succeeds it may profoundly affect the peace of the whole world in the future, insuring a stabilization which has not hitherto been possible.

The far-reaching effects of a world concert for peace cannot be overestimated. Temporarily they might be a cessation of trade resulting from armament making, but, in the long run, such an impetus might be given to world trade in peace-time articles as to usher in an era of unparalleled prosperity.

America needs world trade. If the trade inside the United States is to be rationed and a self-containment policy is to be followed, then realization is inevitable and this means ultimate restriction of human liberty. But increased trade internationally in a peaceful world means increased volume of transactions for the people of the United States, and that means increased employment.

The president now is following out the policy preached by his secretary of state, Cordell Hull, who has been denouncing economic nationalism in his speeches for the last four years and a half. Up to now, it has not been known how much Mr. Roosevelt was prepared to back up Mr. Hull's utterances. The president's course in the last 24 hours shows that he recognizes the importance of a world economy as essential to American prosperity. It is a significant trend. It may influence domestic policy, too, for, as world trade increases, the need for restrictive policies of an emergency character within our borders will gradually disappear.

Mr. Roosevelt has taken the only course he could take—the course that is forced on him by the need for an increasing volume of business transactions within our gates so as to increase employment and increase wages, something that can only happen if the world goes in the direction of peace instead of war.

America's influence on the side of peace was never in our history exerted more opportunely in an international situation or more dramatically. The president has wisely assumed a leadership which, if sincerely supported by Britain and France, may change the whole face of events in a world that has for nearly a decade now been witnessing a breakup of democracies and an extension of human suffering. The constructive step for peace—respect for a treaty negotiated, incidentally, by a Republican administration—shows that on this issue there is no partisanship but an Americanism, gallant and challenging, an Americanism of which all of us can be proud.

PRESIDENT AT CHICAGO

In his Chicago address, the president accurately gauged and just as accurately characterized "The International Lawlessness now Prevailing" as a very real threat "to the very foundations of civilization."

Lawlessness is amuck in the world. And this is particularly sinister because it plans and executes with crafty and consummate care, leaving nothing to chance that can possibly be foreseen.

But when Mr. Roosevelt says that no one should imagine for a moment that this country can escape the approaching typhoon, or that the western hemisphere can expect to avoid an attack, he is merely repeating parrot-wise the same doctrine of defeat and despair that was a vital element in enmeshing us in the World war.

Have we so soon forgotten the Woodrow Wilson preachments after his re-election? Has this generation already erased all recollection of the smooth propaganda that besmied our souls and paralyzed our will to resist the blishments that clothed us in the uniform?

For months before we entered the war in 1917 we were told that we could never expect to escape the results of the war anyway. And what we were asked, was the better plan, to enter with the Allies against bending Germany or to fight alone a triumphant Reich. Even the screen was generously used to show the heavy booted Huns tramping our gardens, looting our storehouses and despoiling our children.

Mr. Roosevelt is very wrong. There is no evidence whatever that the world conflagration could spread to any part of this western hemisphere. It never has.

Despite all the improvements in air and water transportation, it would be next to impossible for even the entire world combined against us to land upon our shores, and then to successfully maintain, a force that could expect to overcome the terrible attack of an angered and outraged America.

We do know from experience that entering the World war, winning the World war, and even imposing our will to a marked extent upon the resulting peace, meant a worse world than we ever saw before.

If logic has not disappeared from the councils of men, if experience can be depended upon to teach just an elementary lesson, if intelligence hovers over this land as we devoutly believe, America will not enter the next World war, but will preserve its civilization and all the lands of the western hemisphere from attack.

We do not thank the President for slipping into the old rut.

He has stepped out on the wrong road. To get where he belongs he must reverse his thoughts.

SINO QUESTION

A reader wants to know why newspapers use the curious expression, "Sino-Japanese," in speaking of the war in Asia. For no good reason, perhaps, except that it follows the usual English procedure in such cases. It goes back to the time when Latin was the international language. The names of countries naturally took a Latin form that would be understood by educated people everywhere. The Latin word for China was "Sinae" or "Sina." That probably came about because there was no "ch" sound in Latin, and the "s" sound was the nearest to it.

The combination "Sino-Japanese" is formed in the same way as "Russo-Japanese," "Franco-German," "Halo-American," and so on. The "s" is merely a connecting vowel. There is no reason why anyone shouldn't say "China-Japanese" or "Chinese-Japanese," except that "Sino-Japanese" sounds smoother. A typical American solution of this problem would be to call it the "Chink-Jap" war.

SIMPLER SERMONS

A preacher, addressing preachers, gave some good advice the other day. He urged his listeners to make their sermons simple, to use fresh illustrations and to get along with fewer adjectives. A sermon, he assured them, should not be "a long procession of cumbersome words." The great words of the language are short ones. A disciplined pen will weed out the complex expressions, the extra adjectives, the hackneyed illustrations. "Words are our tools, and it is up to us to keep our diction keen and sharp."

It is advice needed by speakers in many other fields, and by writers as well as speakers. Along with the trite and over-elaborate phrases, recently developed jargon should be discarded. Meaningless words, understood only within their own respective groups, are separating specialists in social work, science, art, sport, and other interests, from each other and from laymen generally. We have an excellent common language which we ought to use more intelligently.

MODERN MIGRATION

Once in a while, even now, in spite of wars and the rumors of wars the newspapers have an opportunity to supply information that is encouraging.

Such an opportunity was given in the recent statement of Dr. Carl C. Taylor, chief of the Agriculture Department's division of farm population and rural life. Dr. Taylor's title may be forbidding, but the facts he is gathering about the movements of city dwellers to rural areas are definitely not.

It seems according to Dr. Taylor, that with more prosperous times the movement from cities to the land is accelerating. Particularly is this true, he says, in New England and the Middle Atlantic states.

These are part-time farmers. Many of them, of course, turn their eyes to the land with the hope of increasing their incomes. As many of them want the joys of fresh air and fresh vegetables.

Everyone benefits from this movement. Henry Ford has been advocating it for years. The city men equips his country home with as many modern conveniences as he is able to pay for. In so doing, he sets an example that his rural neighbors are likely to follow. The city customs he brings with him may raise the social standards of the community in which he locates. In turn, he finds a saner way of life in his contacts with his neighbors who are closer to the soil.

It is not only in New England and along the Eastern seaboard that this movement from the cities to the land is gaining. Similar movements are reported from nearly all sections of the Nation.

It was true, of course, during depression years, that many unemployed city dwellers turned to the land with the hope that, there, they would not starve, at least, and that they could continue to be independent of relief and charity rolls.

The movement Dr. Taylor reports, however, is not a depression result. It is a movement of city dwellers who can afford the additional expense that such a move entails. Some of these persons do increase cash incomes from the tourist crop, their gardens, chickens or fruit. All of them profit in improved health and a saner attitude toward life.

That in increasing numbers city dwellers are establishing homes in the country (Dr. Taylor says the farm census for 1935 discloses an increase of half a million farms in five years) is encouraging, indeed.

The Nation, and the individual, are bound to benefit.

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

A London weekly becomes excited this week about the continued exploitation of the duke and duchess of Windsor by foreign publications—obviously American—and is clamoring for stringent censorship of the literature that comes into England or the Dominions.

It seems there appears in a magazine published in New York and circulating throughout the empire, a fiction story whose principal characters are identified by the cleverness with which the illustrator depicts the recognizable gestures of its hero.

Most American readers will feel that the London weekly is making much ado about nothing. The duke and duchess are news and they will continue to make news while they live.

It is admitted that American periodicals and writers show less reverence for the living great than do the English. No one in this country is big enough to escape friendly criticism and discussion, or, as sometimes happens, criticism that is anything but friendly. The English royal family is little acquainted with criticism; only recently has permitted the release of intimate character appraisals of Queen Victoria, dead these thirty-six years. A recent biography of the duke of Windsor, the work of an Englishman, aroused a storm of protest.

There is this further difference, too. American writers are inclined to be charitable when discussing the failings of dead men. Little charity has been shown by some English writers toward countrymen who have been accounted great while living but who can protect themselves no longer.

Almost everything written about the duke and duchess that has appeared in American periodicals has been friendly. It is not likely that they recent very much anything that Americans have written or said about them.

The duke is known to have resented greatly some of the things written about him by his countrymen that have appeared in British publications.

Dry sausages may be divided into two groups: cervelats and salamis. Salsamis are more highly seasoned than cervelats. There are hard and soft types of both.

Air-conditioned cars recently were made available for first-class passengers on the Capital Express, which makes the 200-mile run between Shanghai and Nanking.

EFFECTIVE YESTERDAY AND FROM NOW ON

Dinner dishes standing in the kitchen sink. Baby's plea unheeded when he wails "I want a drink."

Four-year-old is told to "hush" and run out-doors to play. Mother's listening to the radio — the World Series starts today.

—THE LITTLE BUNDLE

And so it came to pass that poppa is proved not to be the only one who somehow finds himself busy elsewhere than the job along about now.

Anti-administration people feel that Prexy Roosevelt's speech Tuesday is the first step in a move to drag us into war. Well, I'm not superstitious, but the last time we re-elected a Democratic president you know what happened.

War scares are good politics, however, although there aren't any immediate elections coming up where the "don't-change-in-a-crisis" psychology is needed.

Mussolini and Hitler are great ones for running in the war scares to hold the people in line. Adolf, especially, is good at this sort of thing. He has to be to keep his job.

The football parlay, explain my pals, pay ridiculously small returns for the actual odds against you. I gather that a guy is a chump to gamble on 'em.

And then they tell me how close they came to winning last Saturday, and what system they're going to use this week.

Personally, of course, I don't gamble.

However, I'd have won that series pool yesterday if somebody had scored one more run, and I'd have made a dollar if I'd opened spades against that six no-trump doubled bid the other night, and it was nice to pick up that dollar from a Marquette supporter.

But of course I wouldn't gamble.

Although I wonder whether the two to one odds I got on the Giants were enough.

Gambling is a demoralizing influence, you can't win, and why not save your money anyway?

With the stock market like it is, maybe a flier on Consolidated Roller Towels would be an idea.

TWO RULES

There are two rules to follow when you climb a ladder braced against a freighter's side. The Captain called out: "Steady! Take your time!" And then: "Look up, not down!" It was with pride That I essayed the dizzy height! Below The water churned. . . Above the sky was blue. . . The seagulls wheeled into the morning glow. . . One short step at a time I went, and knew Myself a little wiser than I was Before I climbed. . . When I go back to town I will remember that brief hour because Of meaning words: "Steady! Look up, not down!"

HORMONE TREATMENT OF CRYPTORCHIDISM

The age of puberty, when the individual becomes capable of reproduction, is 14 years for boys, 12 years for girls, on the average, and the law fixes these as the ages of presumptive puberty. Actually it varies from 11 to 16 in boys, from 10 to 15 in girls. Puberty generally occurs earlier in tropical or subtropical countries, later in north temperate climate. Insufficient milk, cheese, cream and other dairy or milk products in the child's diet favors precocious sexual development and consequent abnormal organic differentiations and psychological behavior. It might be a boon to the race if the consumption of milk and milk products were increased and the consumption of tobacco restricted among children in Yankee-land.

In the Bulletin of the Academy of Medicine, August, 1937, Dr. Arthur J. Cramer, Buffalo, presents a clinical report of the results obtained in the treatment of twenty consecutive patients for undescended testis with Anterior Pituitary hormone—two or three times a week. He says that usually 5000 units (50 doses) are sufficient for a fair trial of the treatment.

The ideal age for this treatment is from 9 to 12 years, and non-descent of one or both testes generally responds to the treatment in 70 per cent of cases if there is no mechanical obstruction to descent due to a congenital anomaly. Of course, in such cases only surgery will correct the condition. The majority of cases of unilateral undescended testis or cryptorchidism have some such mechanical obstruction and it is in these unilateral cases that most failures occur in the hormone treatment. The prospect for success seems to be better when both testes are undescended.

Spontaneous descent of the testes may occur in such cases, but the onset of puberty, that is, about the age of 14 years, is about the latest time when the hormone treatment would seem advisable in any case if spontaneous descent has not occurred when the boy reaches the age of 13.

With the onset of puberty and thereafter degenerative changes occur in the undescended gland. If the cryptorchidism is bilateral the inevitable effect of these degenerative changes is sterility. A secondary effect is failure of development in virility, masculinity and physical character. An ultimate effect in some cases is malignant or cancerous change in the retained gland.

It is the present opinion of competent physiologists that the important factor of sterility in cases of bilateral cryptorchidism is the higher temperature of the gland retained in the abdomen or in the inguinal canal. The germinal cells or tissue in the gland require a lower temperature for normal functioning. Of course, if one testis is normally descended and free from disease the complete failure or loss of the other makes no difference so far as virility, development, physical character or fertility are concerned.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Inward Goltre

What would you advise for my inward going? Friends and relatives differ—some say by all means have operation, others urge rest and right diet. (G. C. M.)

Answer—Your best friend is your physician.

Tuberculosis Montoux test given all employees in our plant. Nine showed positive. Now they want me to have X-ray. But I have never had any symptoms (A. H.)

Answer—The X-ray examination cannot do any harm. If you haven't faith in the plant doctors, why not put the matter up to your own doctor and be guided by his advice?

Angina

Husband subject to angina pectoris. We have a diathermy machine, which he was advised to use for bronchial trouble. Is it in any way dangerous for the heart ailment? (Mrs. E.)

Answer—Owing to your use of the evasive mode I am unable to offer opinion. Better ask the physician who prescribes the diathermy treatment for your husband.

Your Birthday

"LIBRA"

If October 8 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m., from 2:30 to 4:30 p. m., and from 8:30 to 10:30 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 to 9:30 a. m., from 6:30 to 8:30 p. m., and from 10:30 p. m. until midnight.

Selfishness will bring self-reproach, envy and disappointment this day. Do not keep apart or in seclusion from your friends, for social contacts are likely to be beneficial in many ways. Appetites, to be satisfied, may require dishes with a savory smell, served in an appetizing manner, so housewives should give considerable thought to the dishes they are going to prepare. If they expect praise and not grumbling. High-handed methods and dictatorial tones will be the principal causes of much dissatisfaction in both homes and offices this day, so neither ought to be resorted to under any circumstances. Married and engaged couples, as well as those having a serious love affair, should be generous enough to make a concession if there is a logical reason for doing so.

If a woman and October 8 is your birthday, you may be a trifle too reluctant to admit your mistakes. You perhaps take friendly criticism too much to heart. You most likely have an unusual amount of common sense and are capable of seeing things in their right perspective. You must make good use of your faculties for you are the master of them and they can be directed in the right or wrong direction. You will have to be very discriminating regarding your books, plays, friends and pleasures. If your cultural progress is to be satisfactory, a big opportunity may be offered to you; be sure that you recognize it. As a teacher, restaurant, gift shop or department manager, artist, musician, author or a professional entertainer you may score a great success. Do not turn up your nose at marriage. It might be your greatest blessing.

The child born on October 8 is usually destined to be very successful. It should not, in its early teens, be forced to make a definite decision as to the work it wishes to engage in.

If a man and October 8 is your natal day, you must not let ambition die. The future ought to have great things in store for you, but it is up to you to go after them. A reputation and fortune may be waiting for you in journalism, the stage, pulpit, schoolroom, medicine, the practice of law, writing, manufacturing or selling.

Seen And Heard In New York

BY GEORGE TUCKER

New York—Communication from the city editor:

"To G. T.: Not long ago some press-agent left a caged canary on your desk. Shortly after that a messenger arrived with a pet monkey. And yesterday while you were out, another press-agent came in with a pigeon. Call off your animal friends, will you? They're disrupting the office. Signed: C. E."

"To C. E.: Believe me, I am as disturbed as you are. The canary ate himself to death. The monkey caught pneumonia and died, but only after rolling up $7.50 in doctor fees. I didn't see the pigeon. Do you know what he was for? Signed: G. T."

"To G. T.: The guy with the pigeon was a press-agent from a new night club. He wanted you to attend, and the bird was to carry your request for reservations back to the management. We told him you were out and that you might not be back. Signed: C. E."

"To C. E.: What do you mean by I might not be back, especially with winter setting in and Christmas coming up? I'm not the nervous type but cracks like that are likely to upset me. Signed: GT."

"To GT: I was passing your desk today and it seemed more disheveled and disordered than usual: there was at least a six months' accumulation of old letters and papers on it. Can't you do something about it? Not that it makes any difference to you, but it reflects on the rest of the staff. Signed: C. E."

"To C. E.: Those old papers and notes you complain of represent a lot of work. They are valuable data and information painstakingly gathered in the studios and show-rooms of New York. I have to have that stuff to write my columns. Besides, it is bad policy to throw anything away. The moment you do you always regret it. Signed: GT."

"To GT: I was thinking that if you ever run across an old tin can on your wanderings around town you can bring them in. And beginning today that order calling off your animal friends is rescinded. Signed: C. E."

"To C. E.: Now that you mention it, I don't recall seeing any tin cans, but the matter could easily be arranged. How many would you want, and what have animals got to do with it? Signed: GT."

"To GT: I think about a bushel basket of tin cans would go nicely. The older and rustier the better. As for the animals, we are in the market for a goat and the thought occurred that one of your friends might bring one in. Signed: P. S."

The order requesting you to clear your desk is hereby rescinded. Signed: C. E."

"To C. E.: The tin cans will be here tomorrow. I got them from the rubbish dump outside of Weehawken, but you will have to pay the driver, which will be $0 cents. Signed: GT. P. S. What made you change your mind about the desk? G. T."

"To GT: Well, it's like this. We want you to feel at home and, with your desk as it is, we thought you might do better work if you had your own private rubbish heap with a roat staked out nearby. Signed: C. E."

A Bystander In Washington

BY FRESTON GROVER

Washington — A news writer in Moscow sends to America a dispatch beginning: "The new Russia is a land of inconsistencies, contrasts and strange events."

Meanwhile, in America. . .

The president dedicates a new $75,000,000 dam, part of whose purpose is to irrigate new land and bring it into rich production. In Washington, the president's secretary of agriculture advances a plan to keep the country from raising too much farm produce.

Southern states are fighting the proposed wage and hour bill, but New England states are hopefully urging its passage because they expect it to increase costs of mill labor in southern states. Southern states then would lose the advantage of cheap labor by which in recent years they have been driving New England's cotton mills out of business.

Some liberal senators denounce the president for his proposal to pipe the supreme court full of new blood, but clamor to climb upon his train when he journeys across the country to "feel the pulse" of his populace.

Winking at Monopoly

The federal government pays out millions of dollars for unemployment relief, but demands for cotton pickers is so great that Georgia farmers have trouble finding and keeping enough colored help.

The nation pleads for peace and disarmament and at the same time lays the keels for two whopping $60,000,000 battleships, multiplies its cruiser and submarine strength and proposes subsidies for fast tankers of sufficient speed to keep abreast of the oil burning battle fleet on distant missions.

The government complains that heavy construction industries, particularly large scale building, are lagging, and yet the federal reserve system keeps interest rates so low that bankers complain they cannot safely lend money at such rates on the "slow" paper involved in financing the building industry.

The department of justice and the federal trade commission, with varying spurts of activity, fight private monopolies, yet congress enacts a bill permitting manufacturers to fix prices on their products. And price-fixing is the principal monopolistic evil against which the two federal agencies fight.

This Strange Land

The state department seeks to keep the country strictly neutral in the Oriental conflict, yet sanctions a "safety first" policy under which government-owned ships may not carry munitions or military supplies to the belligerents. The act chokes off supplies to China, which has no ships, but allows Japan, which has plenty of ships, to buy American munitions and airplanes with which to wallop the Chinese.

The country prides itself upon its excellent health measures and sound common sense, and annually bumps off 36,000 persons with automobiles.

Now all these things, and many another contrast and inconsistency spicing up the life of this continent, can be explained after a fashion to Americans with a sense of humor.

But if a Washington correspondent of a Russian paper should send home a dispatch saying "the new United States is a land of inconsistencies, contrasts, and strange events," he could not be blamed too much.

Dinner Party Given

Darboy — Harry Stumpf attended the Catholic Knight of Wisconsin convention at Beaver Dam Tuesday evening.

Posters are out for a Threshers dance to be held at Hupfaut's hall on Wednesday evening, Oct. 13. Steve Mader and John Dietzen, Jr., are members of the committee in charge.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kamkes entertained a number of friends at a 6:30 dinner at their home on Sunday. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. John Johann, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Ashauer, Mr. and Mrs. Ida Mergel and son, Frank, Mrs. Ida Luniak and son, Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stumpf and daughter, Elsie, Mr. and Mrs. William Kamkes and daughter, Clara.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wiedenhaupt and daughters, Grace and Bernice, Mr. and Mrs. F. Harkle and son, Roger, spent Sunday at Wausau with relatives.

Adolph Stumpf entertained at a 6 o'clock dinner followed by cards at his home on Sunday. Guests included: Mr. and Mrs. George Martins and family, Menasha, Mr. and Mrs. Edw. Stumpf and son, Edward, and Harry Stumpf, Darboy.

Attain Perfect Harmony After 12-Year Struggle

BY DOROTHY DIX
Dear Dorothy Dix—At 32 I have a wonderful husband and an 11-year-old daughter. After years of financial struggle and misunderstanding each other my husband and I have arrived at almost perfect harmony. It took us twelve years to do so, but we have achieved it at last and I feel that it is worth holding on to. My problem is this: I want to go back to work, but my husband doesn't want me to. I am studying typing and business English at home and planning to go to night school to take shorthand in the hope that he will change his mind by the time I finish. All the past years I couldn't consider myself for my mother and father had to be taken care of, then the baby. Now I find myself needing a chance to go on as before disregarding my own desires, or shall I keep on trying to get my husband to consent to my going back to business?
MRS. W. I.

Answer:
You say that you and your husband have achieved a harmonious married life and you feel that that is worth holding on to. So do I. I think it is something to be clung to with both hands and with might and main. It is the best thing that can come to any woman and the one who even contemplates risking it is so foolhardy that she needs a guardian.

By what means you and your husband have arrived at your happy adjustment and understanding I do not know, but I do know that you will make the mistake of your life if you tamper with it. All of your domestic machinery is running smoothly now. Don't wreck it by throwing a monkey-wrench into it. Don't even cause friction by arguing with your husband about going back into business.

For the woman who has to be wage-earner as well as wife and mother because of necessity, I have only the most profound respect, but I think it is a great mistake for a woman to work outside of the home if she has a husband able and willing to support the family. Running a house, making a man comfortable and happy and rearing children take all the time and intelligence, strength and energy that God gave to any one woman.

Of course, a lot of women claim that they can run a home with one hand and a job with the other, but that is not true, and no woman can kid herself into thinking that she can do it. Babies don't run on schedule. Children can't be washed and dressed and fed and parked until you are ready to come back to them again. There is no thirty-hour week for wives and mothers. Making a real home in which there is peace and happiness, good food, rest, sympathy and understanding, and a woman who laughs and cries, prays and helps is the nearest approach to perpetual motion that has ever been devised. And so far a woman is the only human who has ever pulled it off.

But it can only be done by a woman who has given all there is in her to it and not by one who spends her days in an office while her children run the street, who trusts her babies to hiredlings and who comes home too tired to cook a good dinner, or to be a companion to her husband and too nerve-worn to do anything but snap at her children.

Try to see your husband's point of view about not wanting to exchange a full-time wife for a part-time wife, a well-kept home for an ill-kept home. Try to realize that it means one thing to a man to come home to a smiling, rested wife who is ready to talk to him and amuse him, who has all the lights lit and a good dinner smoking on the table, and another thing to come home to a dark house and wait for a wife to come home from work with some delicatessen stuff in a bag.

And don't feel that because your daughter is 11 years old you have done your duty by her and she no longer needs your care. At that age "Sophistication" is the name of this new coiffure with a neat neckline which will be shown at the National Hairdressers' Convention in New York early in October. Hairdressers say that the page-boy bob with its long curls on the nap of the neck is due for demise.

Lemurs of Madagascar

Madagascar is an island in the Indian ocean, east of Africa, and it contains many strange animals.

Ring-tailed lemur of Madagascar.

Among Madagascar's queer animals are the lemurs. Their bodies are less than two feet long. Their tails are long, sometimes having a length of over two feet. Lemurs are like monkeys in more ways than one. They have short hair, something like that of a monkey. They spend most of their time in trees, as monkeys commonly do. A lemur has what we may call "four hands." They are feet as well, since they are used for walking or crawling. Each hand, or foot, has a thumb and fingers. These help the animal to seize food and to grasp the limbs of trees. The tail is long, but it is not used for hanging to anything. When sleeping, the lemur curls its tail around its body. So far as can be told, the tail is of no use except perhaps to balance the animals when it jumps, and to warm its body on cool nights. The name "lemur" means ghost. It was given because of the wild cries which the animals utter at night. Natives of Madagascar are said to believe that the souls of dead persons go into lemurs. Lemurs sleep during the daytime, and prowl around at night. They live chiefly on insects, fruit and birds' eggs. A tame lemur was watched closely by an Englishman. The animal went to sleep soon after dawn, and slept until the sun was almost ready to set. Then he was given a small "breakfast." During the night he seemed never to tire of chasing grasshoppers. These he would eat whenever he caught them. Most lemurs run along the limbs of trees and upon the ground on their hind limbs. The front limbs, or arms, are held above the head while the animal is running. Lemurs have been tamed by natives and taught to steal upon birds in trees, and catch them for their masters. Madagascar is the main home of lemurs, but there are some on the continent of Africa. Others live in the Malay peninsula. For Nature scene of your scrap-book. Advocates Courses in Training of Children

BY ANGELO PATRI
"For the love of pity!" exclaimed Miss Marie, doubling her eyes she removed her glasses, polished them and set them carefully in place on her classic nose. "For the love of pity! What are we coming to?" It was nearing the close of the term, classes would soon be organized for the next year and the sophomores had been asked to indicate what special courses, if any, they would like to have included in their last year of high school. Jane Ellen, a highly intelligent, dependable girl, had written in a firm and legible hand, "I would very much like to take a course that would teach me all about children as I intend to marry and have a large number of prominent sons and daughters." "For the love of pity," echoed Miss Marie, this time very thoughtfully. After all, why not? The Jane Ellens were very likely to marry and have sons and daughters, more or less prominent, and it would seem to be common sense to teach them something about their profession of motherhood. So, why not? She would send in Jane Ellen's request, and what was more, she would back her in it. Jane Ellen was an honor student, especially high in mathematics, but if that was what she wanted she ought to have it. Most girls are going to be married and most of them are going to have children. It is better to learn how to do for them before they come than to make mistakes afterward. Many of the troubles that vex mothers and children could have been prevented if the girl who was to be that mother had been taught how to avoid such troubles. There are no ironclad rules for the rearing of children. No two, even in the same family, need exactly the same treatment. But there are certain fundamental principles of child-training that can be taught and learned and practiced. There are hints that are helpful to mothers. There are experiences recorded for their benefit. There are experts like baby specialists, psychologists, teachers ready to teach what they have learned in their practice with children to those who need that knowledge and experience in their lifework. Courses in child-rearing

New Short Hairstyles Becoming

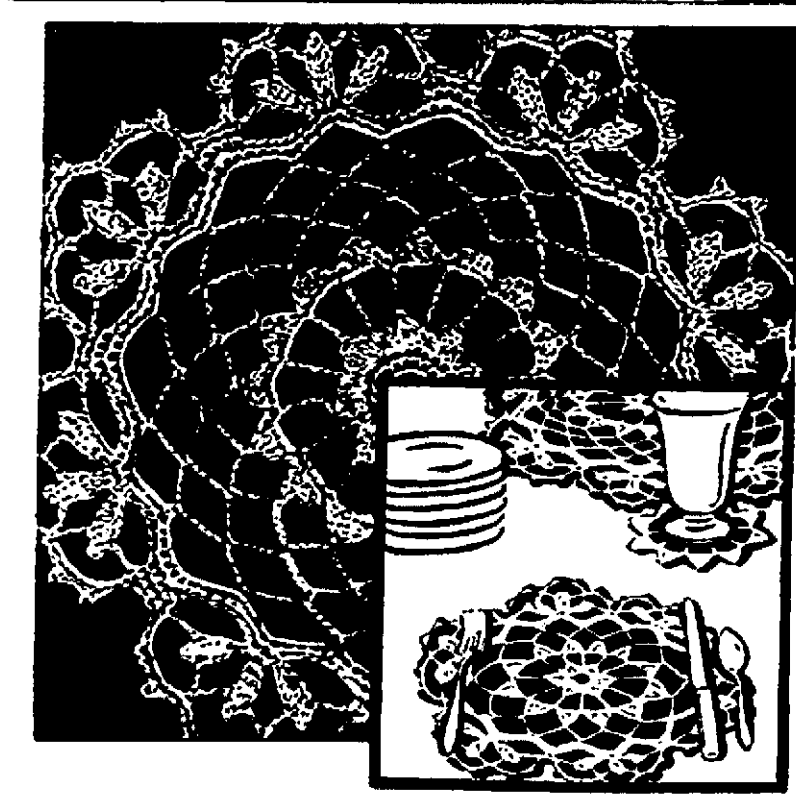

BY ELSIE PIERCE
THE twixteens may not be thrilled with the short hair edict, although on some types the old-fashioned shingled, wind-blown styles were quite piquant and delightful. But, in any case, the new short hairstyles are particularly practical and becoming to the matron, especially the middle-aged, gray-haired matron. The longish bob with nape rolls seemed sort of flapperish, at least to this conservative soul, when worn by the middle-aged, gray haired woman. And certainly the Page-Boy bob was not for her. No smart matron in her right mind and with a fine style sense would dare to adopt that. Some of the short styles are not for her either. The upswipe style that reveals the hairline at the back of the neck and pulls the hair straight up from that hair-line and is rolled under requires a young head, a good hairline, a young, firm, unshrunk neck. Smart Simplicity But there are variations of one mode that should be most becoming. A part on right or left side extends from forehead to nape. From this the hair is swirled deeply to the other side—that is if the part is on the left the hair is swirled to the right; and from a right hand part it is swirled to the left. It is short, but quite different from the old-fashioned shingle in that it gives the appearance of longish hair and is finished with brushed out rolls and ringlets. The hairline is clean-cut and chic, but not an artificial, hard line. The beauty of this hairstyle is two-fold. First, the hair need not necessarily be very short. It can be an in-between length. Second it really requires a minimum of fussing. A good hairdresser will be pleased to tell you exactly how to comb and brush and coax the swirls and fluffed out rolls and curls to keep the coiffure looking its best from setting to setting! In addition to being simple and smart the hair-do is soft; it looks neatly arranged, every hair in place but there isn't a stiff, studied symmetry about it. Brushing the wave to keep it in place has become quite the vogue. My brushing instructions (there's a right and wrong way, you know) are yours for a self-addressed, stamped (3-cent) envelope. Address Miss Pierce in care of the Appleton Post-Crescent. (Copyright, 1937)

Old Gardener Says:
By E. I. Farrington
The winter aconites are attractive, early-flowering plants grown from bulbs. They produce yellow, buttercup-like flowers very early in the spring. Each bloom is set in a dainty ruffle of green leaves, and the plants do not exceed three inches in height. They look best when naturalized in grass or set on the lawn but can be put in the rock garden. It is best to plant the bulbs about two inches deep or even three inches if the soil is very light. Snowdrops and crocuses may be interplanted with the winter aconite to provide a succession of bloom for many weeks. (Copyright, 1937)

My Neighbor Says—
Carrots should be taken out of the ground before it freezes and stored in sand in the cellar. Add a little bluing to the soap suds and your cut glass will be clean and sparkling. (Copyright, 1937)

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing a three-cent stamped, addressed envelope for reply. (Copyright, 1937)

Asks Two More Questions In Bridge Examination

Mr. Culbertson is conducting through this column a national examination of bridge players. Rate yourself by subtracting from 100 the points for each wrong answer. Or mail answers to Mr. Culbertson, care of this paper, and at the end of the exam he will send you a personal certificate with your mark and bridge classification. In close stamped, self-addressed envelope.

BY ELY CULBERTSON
The first two questions in the national self-rating bridge examination appeared yesterday. They were:
Question 1. Neither side vulnerable. You are the dealer and hold:
♠ 3 5 4 ♦ A J 9 5 2 ♣ K J 8 4 3
What call do you make?
Answer: You should pass. You hold two five card suits, but your honor count, or point count, is not up to the requirements of an opening bid. You cannot support partner if he bids a major suit, nor can you put up good defense against opponents if they bid a major suit. (Two points demerit for incorrect answer.)
Question 2. Neither side vulnerable. You are South, third hand. Your partner and second hand pass you hold:
♠ A K J 5 ♥ K 10 4 ♦ K 9 6 ♣ A 7 2
What call do you make?
Answer: Correct bid is one no trump. Only alternative is to bid one spade. One no trump represents both the top card and distributional aspects of your hand, telling partner that you have some support for any suit he may wish to bid. If you bid one spade and partner responds with one no trump you are embarrassed for a good rebid. (One point demerit for a spade call; two points demerit for other calls, such as pass, two no trump, one club, etc.)

TODAY'S QUESTIONS.
Question 3. Both sides vulnerable. Your partner (North) deals and bids one no trump. Second hand passes. You (South) hold:
♠ 6 3 ♥ K 4 2 ♦ K Q 10 9 5 2 ♣ 8 6
What call do you make?
Question 4. Both sides vulnerable. You (South) deal and bid one no trump on this hand:
♠ 9 4 2 ♥ 3 ♦ A 6 3 ♣ K 7 5
West passes. East passes. What call do you make now?
TODAY'S HAND
Match-point duplicate.
North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

SOUTH

♦ A 10
♣ Q J 10 7 6
The bidding:
North East South West
1 heart Pass 1 spade 2 clubs
2 hearts Pass 3 no trump Pass
Pass Pass
North's two heart rebid was the sort of thing that opponents pray for. When South heard West's overcall of two clubs he literally held his breath, hoping that the bid would be allowed to ride to him for a resounding double. When North rescued the adversaries with two hearts South took it for granted that North's hand had been such as to make a rebid imperative. But when South saw North's hand and saw that, far from being imperative, the rebid was decidedly questionable, he had sound cause for disgust. Of course, the three no trump contract was easily fulfilled. But considering what would have happened to West at a two club double contract, vulnerable, South naturally felt that he had been robbed. Players such as North must learn that the word "pass" is perhaps the most valuable word in bridge.

Tomorrow's Hand

GOOD TASTE TODAY

SHALL I LEAVE HOME?
Dear Mrs. Post: I'm in need of a job of some description to help my brother support our mother, father and an invalid sister, but am at a loss as to how to secure one under the circumstances. The small town where we live offers few if any desirable positions for girls. There are two big cities—both about one hundred miles from here—and if I could only be sure of getting a job in one or the other of them I would certainly go there, even if I had to.

hitch-hike. The trouble is, I have any relative or close friends in either city whom I could stay with while hunting a job. What would you do under the circumstances? I read all the ads in the daily paper of one city which we take, but the all seem to want young women who are college graduates and who have specialized in some line of work such as bookkeeping, shorthand, speed, beauty parlor work, etc. I have had no experience in any of these fields, although I certainly should like to learn to do office work by being an assistant in a business would try me. I haven't finished high school, but received honors while there, and always ranked high in my English and science classes. But I could work in a restaurant or a clothing store, or anywhere where special training and experience isn't necessary. Just how would I go about applying for work? I might add that I am just eighteen.

Answer: I honestly believe that the best advice to give you is to stay at home. This may sound very discouraging and unappreciative of your ambition to work in order to help your family. But the situation as I see it is this: In the first place, you can't expect to receive more than a very small salary for the type of work you will be given, because as you say, you have no specialized in anything which could offer a larger one. In the second place, it costs more than you probably think to live in a city, and would more than likely take all you make for your board, room and care. Then you would not be able to help your family, would you? I were you, I should stay at home and help your parents. Maybe you could think of something to do to earn a little money there, give it to your mother instead of to a land lady. Maybe you could make something salable such as fine hand-kn sweaters, bonnets and booties for city exchange. Or could you start little home exchange of your own and sell food that you make—say on Saturdays? Perhaps your invalid sister can learn to help you—an this might give her a great interest. There are many many things you could do, and perhaps they, or which might bring in a little more for your family, and at the same time you would be working at home instead of working for strangers. If you were convinced of your marked ability in one definite field that might be worth suffering a test. But as you describe yourself think very seriously of drabness, loneliness, and the possibility of joblessness before you leave the home that surrounds you at home. At least SEE what you can contribute in the way of money and add it to (don't subtract it from the sum of happiness that have you at home totals for your family. (Copyright, 1937)

A pep convocation will be held on Friday morning, Oct. 29, under the direction of Tom Jacobs, Chicago, chairman of the pep committee.

Classes on Saturday morning will be dismissed and the homecoming parade and house decorations will be judged. The homecoming dance will be held Saturday night in the Alexander gymnasium.

After luncheon will be held at noon Saturday and a banquet that night. Fraternities will hold open house during the entire weekend.

The slogan committee is composed of Robert Isely, Wauwatosa, chairman; Professor Howard Troyer, faculty advisor; and Penelope Trick, Elmhurst.

The frosh bonfire will be in charge of a committee headed by Ray Charwick, Chicago. He will be assisted by Elaine Buesing, Appleton; Harold Richards, Niagara; Tom McArdle, Bailey's Harbor; Marjorie Carpenter, Fairmont; Minnie, and Lucille Prince, Menominee, Mich.

Prizes at bridge were awarded to Wilbert Hansen and Mrs. Thomas Longworth and at schafskopf to R. F. McGillan and Frank Bonier, while the special prize went to Mrs. J. R. Kitchen. The committee in charge of arrangements included Wilbert Hansen, Elmer Totzke, A. Krueger and Miss Lydia Hollenbeck.

Tom Hayes and Mrs. Fred Wichman won prizes at schafskopf and Mrs. Fred Zuehlke and Mrs. William Schultz at bridge at the card party given by Christian Mothers society of St. Theresa church Wednesday afternoon at the parish hall. Six tables were in play.

Mrs. Dora Brown and Mrs. Frank Gosha will be chairmen of an open card party to be given by Christian Mothers society of St. Mary church at 2:30 Friday afternoon at Columbia hall. Schafskopf and bridge will be played.

HELP WANTED!

Run down feeling Nature's call for more Vitamin D.

When your body needs sleep, you become drowsy. When your system needs food, you have a feeling of hunger. And when Nature calls for more Vitamin D, B and C to keep your internal mechanism functioning, the signal for help is given in the form of a feeling of lassitude, lack of energy, loss of appetite, nervousness, irritability, constipation and general run down feeling. Don't ignore these warning signals. Serious illness often follows vitamin deficiency. In such cases, many physicians prescribe RAY-D Irradiated Yeast Tablets because of their concentrated Vitamin D, B and C. Each RAY-D Tablet contains as much Vitamin D as TWO TEA-SPONSFULS of standard cod liver oil, plus Vitamins B and C. RAY-D Irradiated Yeast Tablets are a natural food with no harmful side effects. They are the most potent source of Vitamin D, B and C. Buy RAY-D Irradiated Yeast Tablets at all drug stores. Ask for RAY-D YEAST TABLETS.

Kafka Appointed As Operator of New Sewage Plant

Clintonville Council Wants School and City Elections on Same Day

Clintonville—John Kafka of this city on Wednesday accepted the position as operator of the new sewage disposal plant, which will be dedicated and ready for operation on Oct. 15. Kafka was chosen from a field of 17 applicants for the position, which will pay $115 per month at the start. The new operator will assume his duties Monday, Oct. 11. The plant, a PWA project costing approximately $85,000, is almost entirely automatic.

Mr. Kafka came to Clintonville from Antigo in 1932, soon after his graduation from a course in chemical engineering at Carroll college, Waukesha. During his college career, he was a member of the Carroll football team. During his five years in this city, Mr. Kafka has been employed at the plant of the Four Wheel Drive Auto company.

At the October meeting of the city council Tuesday evening, it was voted that C. C. Mularkey, city attorney, investigate the necessary procedure to have the annual school election held at the same time of the city elections. At present, the school elections are held on the same day of the annual district meeting in July.

Directors of the Clintonville Fish and Game Protective association asked the council to discontinue the hauling of city garbage and rubbish to the Pigeon river slough on W. Eighth street. It is thought that seepage from this source is causing the death of hundreds of fish in the river. The matter was left in the hands of the health committee.

Alderman Albert Winter, chairman of the police and fire committee, reported that gun racks, a bullet-proof windshield and radiator guard for the police squad car have been ordered. This step was taken following the recent gun battle with the Clintonville post-office robbers.

The question of purchasing two bullet proof vests for police officers was left in the hands of the committee.

Loan Authorized

The mayor and city clerk were authorized by the council to borrow up to $25,000 as needed for city expenses for the current year. Last year's budget will not be sufficient to pay for the many unexpected city improvements made during the last nine months. Among these were additional land purchased for let-proof, $1,000; floodlights at the athletic field, $4,500; curb and gutter construction, $7,500; added police following the new law, $1,000; Golden Jubilee celebration, $1,400; new parking lots and lighting for same, $1,000; police squad car, $800. The city will be partly reimbursed for the curb and gutter work, as property owners are being assessed 30 cents per front foot.

S. J. Tilleson, city clerk, was asked to notify William Nelson to lower his sidewalk on E. Second street to comply with the established grade. Connecting sidewalks are also to be built by Frank Buchholz on West street, Carl Knapp on Bennett street, and George Marquardt on Wilson street.

Martin Peterson of the Bethany congregation appeared before the aldermen on the matter of car parking near the church on E. Seventh street. The highway is very narrow at this point and parking is hazardous. He asked the city to consider the construction of an alley along the west boundary of the old abandoned cemetery, which adjoins the church property. The matter was referred to the street committee.

District Attorney Paul Roman of Waupaca was the guest speaker at the Lions club dinner Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. He explained matters pertaining to pensions and poor relief. He cited cases showing how Waupaca county is repaid by other counties in some cases of relief.

The Lions are again planning to sponsor a poultry show in November. The Future Farmers of America of the local high school, under the direction of E. A. Hutchinson, expect to hold a grain show in connection with the event.

Police Hunt Torture Slayers of Floridan

Lakeland, Fla.—(AP)—City and county police followed slim clues today in their hunt for the torture slayers of handsome, 200-pound Douglas Beane.

Assistant State Attorney J. C. Rogers said he believed a band of men tortured Beane, mutilated his body and dumped him in a lonely "lovers' lane" near Lake De Leon. He said brutality of the crime indicated a revenge motive.

Rogers said Beane apparently was killed on Tuesday. There was no sign of a struggle in Beane's car, abandoned nearby.

Beane, an electrician employed by the Atlantic Coast Line railroad, was a native of St. Simons Island, Ga., and came to Florida from Savannah about 25 years ago. He was 49.

A coroner's jury returned a verdict that Beane "came to his death at the hands of a party or parties unknown."

Church Again Is Facing Controversy at Conclave

Cincinnati—(7)—Leaders of the Protestant Episcopal church looked to a broad liberalism today to hold it firmly together in the face of controversy over social and economic ills.

As the Episcopal triennial convention entered its second day, one prominent churchman said the church had weathered doctrinal differences "much worse" than the dispute precipitated by teachings of the church league for industrial democracy.

The liberalism is so broad as to permit differences over doctrine which have rent other denominations, the spokesman asserted.

Returning to the discussion about how far churchmen should go in attempting to change the social order, the spokesman, a doctor of divinity, remarked:

"Once in a while somebody in the church starts throwing bricks, but it always ends in peace."

Many Thousands of Fish Planted by Waupaca League

More Than 80 Members Attend Meeting of Conservation Body

Waupaca—More than eighty members of the Waupaca Conservation league packed the clubhouse Monday evening for its regular meeting and listened to reports of the work done by the organization during the last year.

Dr. A. M. Christofferson, league president, reported on the trout received from the Wisconsin Conservation commission. They were fed and cared for during the summer in the ponds on the league grounds and planted Sept. 21 in streams within the county. On Sept. 1, 1936, 15,000 fingerling rainbow trout were received and 14,750 were planted in Emmons creek. On June 4, 1,100 rainbow trout from 4 to 6 inches long were received and 1,075 were planted in the Waupaca river near Steadman's bridge. On May 4, 22,000 brown fingerlings arrived, and 16,000 lived to be planted in Emmons creek. On June 20, 1,500 brook trout, 20 months old and 5 to 8 inches long were put in the league ponds and of these 500 were planted in Webb's creek, 300 in Peterson Creek, 150 in Browne Marsh creek, 350 in Hartman creek and 50 were left in the ponds.

In addition to the trout 16 pair of adult bass were seized from the Waupaca river May 12 and from these, 11,000 bass 2 to 4 inches long were raised and later planted in the Chain o' Lakes. Why there was a difference in the size of the fish has not been explained. More bass may have been hatched but upon arrival at the feeding ponds one morning a conservationist found that muskrats had been burrowing under the bass pond and most of the water had drained away. How many fish were lost was not determined.

The fish were fed every other day by members of the league, each one of the trout committee taking a turn of two weeks each. The fish were fed a mixture of dry powdered milk and liver, and also carp, scined from the river and ground, and mixed with powdered milk.

Many Bass Planted
Paul Williams is the chairman of this committee and was assisted by Alta Pinkerton, Gaylord Roberts, Elmer Taber, Otto Chady, Paul Jones, Arthur Osborn, Einar Torsell, Ned Testin and George Hadland.

Many thousand bass were taken out of the George Allen trout pond and put in the Chain o' Lakes, Gilbert Lake and Sunset Lake. Men from the Wild Rose State Fish Hatchery did the work of planting, state supervision being compulsory.

In addition to the work as carried on by the local league, many more fish were planted in the waters of Waupaca county by the Wisconsin Conservation commission during the year. Sixty cans of wall-eyed pike fry were planted in Spencer Lake. ("Fry" are two months old fish and nearly 4,000 can be put in a can that is commonly used for milk.) Twenty-five cans of muskie fry were planted in the Chain o'

Lakes. Two hundred cans of perch fingerlings were planted in the Chain o' Lakes and 200 cans in Shadow Lake, Waupaca city. Only about 400 fingerlings can be put into the container.

Six thousand small-mouthed bass, 30,000 perch, all fingerlings, were also planted in the Chain o' Lakes. Pickerel fingerlings, were put in Bear Lake and Crystal Lake, 50 cans at each place; 10,000 bullhead fingerlings and 30,000 bullheads, adult size, planted in Taylor Lake; 10,000 blue gills, 1, 2, and 3 years; 80,000 perch, same size, and 50 adult small-mouthed bass and 65 four inch were planted in the Chain.

Two hundred perch fingerlings were put into Bear Lake; 12,000 fingerlings and adult perch in Baileys and Bass Lakes; 12,000 adult and fingerling perch and 150 small-mouthed bass, fingerling and adult size; 30,000 brown trout fingerlings, the Little Wolf river and 81,000 into Radleys and Emmons creeks. More brown trout fingerlings were planted in Crystal river and Spalding creek.

Plan Card Parties
Following the suggestion of members to hold a series of card parties during the winter, proceeds to go into the winter feeding treasury, volunteers for workers were called for and Chris Hanson, Judge A. M. Scheller and Shirley Trull responded. The date of the first of these public parties has been tentatively set for Oct. 20.

Last year, through direction of Conservation Warden George Hadland, over $75 worth of feed was distributed in this community to 113 feeding stations. This cared for 94 partridge, 307 quail, 1,251 pheasants and 345 prairie chickens. The work for the coming winter will be

Wisconsin Social Security Problem

Treatment of Delinquent Person Is for the Protection of Society

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of a series of articles on the report and recommendations of the Citizens' Committee on Public Welfare, and the proposed reorganization of public welfare administration in Wisconsin, which is expected to be considered in the near future by the state legislature. The following article is devoted to the problem of delinquency, one of the many ramifications of the subject called public welfare.

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Anyone familiar with the problem of delinquency, and all workers in this field agree that the first and fundamental objective of any treatment of the delinquent person is the protection of society.

How this is to be accomplished, however, has not always been so generally agreed. During most of the history of the human race crime has been a problem, and also during most of that period the only generally agreed cure for the problem was punishment.

Today, however, emphasis is being placed more and more on curative measures, measures having as their objective the protection of the public and yet at the same time the rehabilitation of the delinquent whenever possible.

Returned to Society
That idea is the keynote of the Citizens' committee recommendations in the field of delinquency. Aware that 95 per cent of all persons committed to Wisconsin penal institutions sooner or later are returned to society, the group observed "that it is incumbent upon the state to use the period of correction to treat the individual so that, upon release, he is a better man than when he entered the institution."

The committee declared that a comprehensive program designed to lessen delinquency must embrace three ideas, all of which will eventually be written into Wisconsin statutes, unless all signs fail.

They are: (1) the prevention of delinquency through proper training and education; (2) treatment in institutions designed to accomplish the rehabilitation of the individual; (3) an opportunity for the individual, be he on probation, parole, pardoner, or discharged, to assume a normal phase in society.

And then the committee emphasized that such a program necessitates a correlation of authority and a correlation of agencies,

"which does not exist at the present time in Wisconsin."

Forces Work Independently
Examination of the present machinery in the state for the handling of delinquency sent the committee researchers into figurative mourning. "The several police forces work independently and sometimes at cross purposes. There is a lack of uniformity throughout the state concerning the length of sentences imposed for the same crime. The determination of commitment of a criminal is left almost entirely to a sitting judge," said its report.

The committee ventured on an idea which is not exactly new, but which is still considered worth including in its report, when it expressed concern for the failure of law enforcement agencies to compete with the modern, high-powered methods employed by criminals. Law enforcement remains on a local basis, particularly in Wisconsin, the committee reminded, while criminals do not bother much about state or county lines.

Coordination of Wisconsin's widely scattered agencies for crime detection is virtually necessary, the group warned, and went on with the suggestion, again not new, that a state bureau of criminal apprehension to assist local police agencies and to provide instruction for police officers throughout the state, be created within the state government. It may be noted here that such a proposal has been vetoed in the legislature several times, largely through the efforts of organized labor, which glowers with suspicion at the mention of state police of any kind.

Probed Deeply
When considering the rehabilitative features of its proposed correctional system, the committee also probed deeply into present facilities, which have been haphazardly adopted at intervals in recent years. "An effort is made to give an individual the proper rehabilitative treatment when he arrives at the institution," the committee found, "but too often it is found that the institution to which he has been committed does not possess the requisite facilities for treating his particular case."

"Furthermore, there is no provision for the handling of the delinquent who is mentally defective. During the past biennium over 45 per cent of the intake of the Wisconsin State prison at Waupun and the Wisconsin State reformatory at Green Bay were mentally defective, according to the records of the psychiatric field service; yet they had been committed by law to institutions in which no adequate facilities exist for their proper treatment. To this group of prisoners, the prison can serve little useful purpose except confinement.

Examining local penal procedure, during a period almost a year, the committee emerged with startling revelations, revelations which led to an urgent appeal to the governor to create a special commission in which there shall be due representation by county officers to consider improvements and modernization.

Local Jail Systems
Reform in local jail systems is a crying need, the committee concluded. Conditions, the group said, were found to be even worse than the investigators expected, in spite of the fact that they were forewarned that the U. S. department of justice gives the county jails of the state "an extremely low rating." Only two jails in the state, for example, earned a grade between 60 and 70 per cent, while 27 fell to 50 per cent or less, with the whole state lagging far behind the national average.

So the committee recommended: "that our county jails should be used for no purpose other than detaining defendants awaiting trial or sentence, or awaiting transportation to another institution. All other persons now in our Wisconsin jails might better be housed elsewhere."

Although it was blunt in its criticism of present conditions, the committee was equally blunt in its declaration that the only sensible method of dealing with the misdeedant problem—instead of confinement in jails which are "schools for crime"—is the establishment of camps in which farming, forestry or industries are conducted, and which would be the place of incarceration of all sentenced misdeedants except those in Milwaukee county.

Specific recommendations to deal with each of the special phases of delinquency, adult and juvenile, were also offered, in the case of the juvenile problem an enlargement of present facilities and emphasis on vocational training, and an elaborate system of treatment through "adult counselors," for adult delinquents.

In general, the committee's thought on the delinquency problem can be expressed in the belief that non-institutional treatment has tremendous possibilities, which if used intelligently, with emphasis of the rehabilitation of the delinquent, may eliminate the necessity for an expensive building program for incarceration which too often is a dismal failure.

"Delinquency," the report declared, "is viewed no longer as a state of mind or a manifestation of innate badness. Instead the delinquent is considered the product of his biological inheritance, conditioned by the experiences of life, from infancy to the time of the commission of the delinquent act. The basic principle of this theory is that the objective of all treatment of the delinquent should be the protection of society. This is accomplished first through elimination of conditions which cause delinquency, and second, through the rehabilitation of the individual who has been found delinquent," the committee reiterated.

(The next article in this series will discuss public health, another manifestation of that large general problem embraced in the term "public welfare.")

Plan Campaign on U. of W. Campus

Appleton Man May Play Prominent Part in Democrat Drive

(Post-Crescent Madison Bureau)
Madison — James T. Cavanaugh, Antigo assemblyman and president of the Wisconsin Young Democratic organization, said yesterday that his group is planning an organizing campaign on the campuses of Wisconsin colleges this fall.

Cavanaugh feels that the score of colleges in the state are fertile fields for the organization in preparation for the 1938 campaign, and with the assistance of funds from the national Democratic committee is now laying the groundwork for an intensive drive, proposed and approved at the organization's annual convention last summer in Portage.

Two leaders of the University of Wisconsin club, Gerald Jolin of Hortonville, and A. J. Cohen of Appleton, are being considered as heads of the college campaign, he said. Both young men are law students at the university, and would devote their weekends to the work. Jolin is president of the university club, which is perhaps the largest unit in the state organization.

Wheeler Is Afraid Stage Being Set For Dictatorship

Doesn't Think Roosevelt Seeks Power but Fears Another May

Eau Claire (U)—A warning for America to guard against a dictatorship was issued by Senator Bruce M. Wheeler of Montana in an address last night to the annual convention of the Wisconsin Federation of Women's Clubs.

He said that while he did not think President Roosevelt "has any intention of setting up a dictatorship," it is possible "he can set up the machinery by which someone else could erect a dictatorship."

The Montana senator, declaring that a subversive court and subversive congress make for a "virtual dictatorship," said he had "disagreed with the president on the supreme court question because my economic and political philosophy has always been liberal."

"It was a question of whether or not we wanted to make it possible for an individual to control the supreme court," Wheeler said. "I am unwilling and always will be for Mr. Roosevelt's or any other administration to have control of the supreme court of America."

The Rev. Stephen Peabody, Ripon, urged the federation in an earlier address to instigate action to place Wisconsin among the leaders in the field of public welfare work.

Legislators in Protest Against State Department

Group Claims "Unfair" Treatment of Dairy Farmers by Division

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison—Protesting against what they termed "unfair" treatment of dairy farmers by the state department of agriculture and markets, a group of farmer-legislators, led by Alvin A. Handrich, Waupaca county Progressive, today were pondering what to do about a departmental order just published which requires that all dairy and breeding cattle over six months of age in Wisconsin must be tested for Bang's disease before they may be sold or transferred to another herd.

The order requires that all cattle sold or transferred in the state from now on must be certified by a veterinarian to be free from the disease.

The new regulation replaces an older one which applied only to counties covered by the area test law.

Serious Hardship
Because the percentage of testing in Waupaca, Winnebago, Outagamie, Calumet, Shawano, Brown, Kewaunee and other central and northeastern counties is slight, Handrich declared that the order will work a serious hardship on farmers in that area particularly.

There was some grumbling in legislative chambers yesterday that the department's action was a subsidy to veterinarians, and that the farmers' wishes and interests got scant consideration.

However, Handrich admitted that the legislature is powerless to do anything about the question, unless the governor amend his legislative call to provide for farm legislation, which Wednesday seemed very unlikely.

Vote Proposed in State Legislature On Coalition Issue

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau. Madison—A vote by Republican and Democratic members of the state legislature before a final adjournment on the much discussed question of a coalition against the Progressives next year has been proposed here by Assemblyman William Sweeney, Brown county Democrat.

Sweeney declared that he is personally favorable toward the idea of a conservative alliance to fight the Progressive-Socialist merger in the next state elections, but only in an informal way. He would not favor a new party under a coalition or any other name, but would prefer a plan through which sitting assemblymen and senators would get the joint support of both old parties, while a coalition state ticket would be put in the field.

The Brown county representative feels that legislative members of the two parties represent the most important element of the parties, and that the logical beginning of a coalition movement would be among those legislators.

Meanwhile members of the legislature continued to discuss the proposition informally, and the suggested coalition convention in a Fox river valley city sometime this fall.

"50 Years of Faithful Service"

Joe Davies' Wanderings May Annoy Other Envoys

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER

New York—Joe Davies, our ambassador to Moscow, has returned to his post after a summer of wandering in 14 other European countries and while it is no news off my peach what Mr. Davies does with his time, I wonder how the other diplomats of our service have felt about it. Ambassadors and ministers are always very polite outwardly, but if you catch them with their feet up and their hair down, so to speak, they are human just like policemen, reporters and I might add, pickpockets.

A policeman does not like to find another policeman invading his beat, and a reporter doing the court house, for example, is likely to show annoyance if he discovers the man from the hotel run or police headquarters rifling through the divorce petitions in the clerk's office in an otherwise laudable effort to pick up a hot one for the night-and-home edition.

As for pickpockets, the ethics of that profession, like those of a profession which is said to be the oldest of them all, are understood to provide that when one is working a given side of the street the others shall take the other side or, if that side is taken, also, take another street.

As I understood the assignments in our diplomatic service, Mr. Norman Davis is a sort of roundsman or sergeant with a roving commission to visit other men's beats to see if their wine and cigars are up to the American standard and not to report them to the state department if there are dents in their plug hats.

Joe Davies is just Freshman Ambassador.

But Joe Davies is not Norman Davis. Joe Davies, in fact, is just a freshman ambassador, and yet he has been bouncing all over the place for months, and our other statesmen can hardly be blamed or suspecting that he is trying to show them up. He might even give the state department an idea that a real hustler could handle half a dozen embassies and legations, and thus throw other deserving Democrats and plodding career men out of work.

The best post nowadays is Mr. Bingham's in London, and certainly Mrs. Davies would look more at home 'mid the pleasures and palaces of Mayfair than among the four hundred of Moscow.

Of course, a lady in the diplomatic service must go where her husband's duty calls him, even to 14 countries in one summer and back to Moscow at least long enough to keep the franchise. But somehow Mrs. Davies seems incongruous among the communists, for she is one of our richest capitalistic American ladies who has always loved nice things. And I am not one to stir up suspicion and trouble among our diplomats, but I do have a feeling that—well, you know, London, his majesty the king, her majesty the queen, the duke and duchess, and how well you are looking this evening.

What has Moscow to offer? Only Joe Stalin, the head man, who dresses like a French baggage porter and keeps in hiding anyway; some business men and the American journalists.

Not On Best Terms

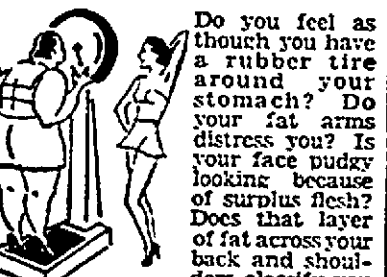

With The Journalists
And unhappily, Mrs. Davies and journalists are not on the best of terms, a state of affairs which probably goes back to the mischievous conduct of a young lady journalist who used to cover society when Mrs. Davies was the social leader of Palm Beach.

Mrs. Davies' estate, which had a lovely garden, which is French for garden, was known as El Mirasol or El Hacienda or something of the kind, but there was also a sign by the entrance to the driveway which read "slowly, please." And this lady journalist always pretended to know no better than to refer to the delightful mask ball or society circus at Mrs. Davies' magnificent estate, "el slowly, please." Surely, that was no way to win friends for the press.

Strangely, my thoughts in connection with Ambassador Davies and Mrs. Davies, always revert to London or, for second choice, Paris. Nobody seems to care much about Moscow, and Mr. Bill Bullitt, who is in Paris now, was on his toes with a long lead off from Moscow before he went down with a hook slide and caught the other.

I might also compare this situation to the nursery game of musical chairs, and suggest that the other

Get Rid of Excess FAT with this SAFE DRUGLESS Treatment

Do you feel as though you have a rubber tire around your stomach? Do your fat arms distress you? Is your face pudgy looking because of surplus flesh? Do you feel a layer of fat across your back and shoulders classify you as fat and WATE-OFF, the pure vegetable tablets for weight reduction. WATE-OFF is guaranteed safe and harmless and yet is amazingly effective, as testified to by thousands of users many of whom gratefully report reductions of 5 pounds a week and even more, and with great benefit to their health and general well-being. WATE-OFF is a compound of pure vegetable matter and herbs. It is absolutely free from drugs and so guaranteed. It contains no dinitrophenol or other dangerous drugs—no reducing salts or other harmful laxatives that physic the system and leave the skin loose and flabby. WATE-OFF, on the contrary, enables you to take off weight—gradually—without the slightest harm or danger. Instructions say: Take 3 or 4 tablets a day, before meals, then eat your hearty fill. "Results," say users, are simply amazing. Unsightly fat seems to melt away like magic, leaving no saggy, flabby skin or broken-down tissue. You've seen WATE-OFF advertised in Pictorial Review, Physical Culture and other leading magazines at $2.45. Now we offer it to you for only $1.19 with the understanding that if you are not satisfied with the results, you have the privilege of returning the empty carton and we will return your money.

Concrete Cistern For Campground

500-Barrel Reservoir Will Be Used for Fire Protection

Forest Junction -- On authority granted at the annual stockholders' meeting of the Appleton District Campmeeting association here last August, an underground concrete cistern of 500 barrel capacity is being constructed at the district campground here for fire protection purposes.

Resident directors of the association met at the camp this week and selected the site for the cistern, which will be 12 by 18 feet and 10 feet deep. It is being made just outside of the circle of buildings to prevent its being hemmed in in case of serious fire. Work on the excavation is being started immediately by F. W. Zirbel, local contractor.

The Rev. Philip Schneider was at Milwaukee on Tuesday attending the funeral of the Rev. H. G. Droegkamp, 73, whose death had occurred at his home in that city after a prolonged illness. In his official capacity as presiding elder of the Appleton district from 1913 to 1915, the Rev. Mr. Droegkamp had been a regular visitor to the Forest Junction circuit of Evangelical churches.

Giant's Hopes Tumble As Yanks Win Opener

FACES TOUGH JOB

McCarthy Selects Red Ruffing as His Hurler

BY GAYLE TALBOT
NEW YORK (U)—Bruised by Yankee bats but defiant still, the jittery Giants plinned their faith on Cliff Melton, the gawky freshman from the mountains, to square accounts today and keep them in the running for the winner's share of the world series swag.

After yesterday's opening exhibition, when 60,000 fans saw the Giants' pitching and defense fall apart at once, it looked a forlorn hope. Yet the Giants and their followers were sure that Melton, who looks like Ichabod Crane come to life and can pitch like all get-out, would put them even up again.

The Yankees obtained an important jump by shelling Carl Hubbell from the premises in the open-or, and promised to be hard to head off after yesterday's 8 to 1 rout.

If Lefty Gomez throttled the Giants bats yesterday, holding them to a single run on three bunched hits in the fifth inning, there was little reason to suspect that his big, right-handed teammate, Rufus (the Red) Ruffing, might not do the same today.

In Tough Spot
The spot wasn't calculated to appeal to a first-year pitcher — not even one as insensible to excitement as Melton appears to be. He knows, doubtless, that a freshman pitcher ever won a world series game. And he couldn't have helped seeing the roof, including all the gables, fall in on Hubbell in the sixth inning yesterday.

There's something about the way those Yankees pile into a pitcher the instant he even appears to hesitate that gives you the shakes clear up to the second tier of the stands.
Melton is bound to have that same feeling today, like he is today with fused dynamite.

Another thing, the mountaineer can't feel quite so sure of his support after having watched the incomparable Hubbell get his lumps in yesterday's nightmarish sixth inning, when the Yanks scored seven of their eight runs.

With the right kind of infield defense behind him, Carlos could have escaped with maybe a run or two.
That is something Giant pitchers have learned to expect. Yet when Hubbell momentarily lost what his batterymate, Gus Mancuso, called "the fine edge of his stuff," his supporting cast promptly went to pieces. That, as Manager Bill Terry admitted later, is bad. Just before it happened Hubbell had retired 14 straight Yankees. He had them badly puzzled, hitting at his sweeping curve and swinging wildly at his screwball. The Giants looked smart and confident.

Nearly Beaten Gomez
Then Hubbell's first pitch in the sixth nearly beated Gomez. The Yankee hurler, who can't hit a lick, dropped into the dirt and took a long time getting ready to bat again. Some thought the incident might have shaken Hubbell, but the Giant leftie said not in the clubhouse.

Anyway, he walked Gomez, and that appeared to open the flood gates. Before it ended the Yanks had made seven runs on five hits, four walks and errors by Dick Bartell and Burgess Whitehead. What had promised to be a thrilling game became a farce, and the fans began to leave. The home run that Tony Lazzeri hit off Al Smith, fourth Giant pitcher, in the eighth inning didn't matter at all.

Terry was inclined to blame the debacle on the fact that Bartell, after taking Gus Mancuso's perfect punch that caught Gomez far off center, dropped the ball. If he had held it the Yankees would have had only a man on first with one out, and the disaster might have been averted. As it was, four of the next six Yanks clouted Hubbell for singles and another drew a walk.

DOUBLE PLAY NIPS GIANT RALLY

Working with machine-like precision, the Yankees shut off the Giants with one run in the fifth inning, mainly through a double play. Crossetti to Lazzeri to Gehrig. Tony Lazzeri is shown here just after throwing the ball to Gehrig after Johnny McCarthy (sliding) had been forced out. Gehrig took the throw before Gus Mancuso could reach first base. The Yankees won the game, 8 to 1. The ball is indicated by arrow.

Appleton Reds, Kaukauna Eleven Play Here Sunday

Appleton Reds football team will show at the Spencer street field at 2 o'clock against the Kaukauna semi-pro club, it was announced today by Manager Walter Hoppe.

Last season the teams tangled in two games with the Reds dropping the first and coming back later to win by a decisive score.

The Reds are reported to have worked out against Neenah High school squad Wednesday afternoon at Neenah. The final drill has been called by Coach Harvey Kranhold for 7 o'clock Friday evening at Jones park.

STAR DOESN'T SCRIMPAGE
Milwaukee — Harry Leysenaar, 184-pound Marquette university sophomore halfback and potentially an outstanding star, hasn't been in one scrimmage or run through one signal drill this year but he is reputed to be and is thoroughly acquainted with every backfield assignment. Leysenaar, recovering from a recent appendectomy, has attended every practice session, the Hilltop and has closely watched every scrimmage play. He has kept in condition by light gridiron exercises.

Two Milwaukee Boys Will Show With Bays Sunday

Jankowski and Goldenberg Learned Their Football There

GREEN BAY — Two boys who started their football careers in Milwaukee will again be in action in that city Sunday afternoon when the Packers clash with the Chicago Cardinals in a comeback game expected to attract a record crowd of fans.

They are Eddie Jankowski and Buckets Goldenberg, the former a newcomer to professional ranks this season who shows promise of becoming one of the league's greatest fullbacks, the latter a veteran who is having one of his best years with the Packers.

Standout at Wisconsin

Jankowski was the standout performer on the University of Wisconsin team the last three years, and Coach E. L. (Curly) Lambeau of the Packers was noticeably pleased when he signed Jankowski to a Green Bay contract.
Jankowski played with the College
All-Stars against the Packers on Sept. 1 in Chicago, and noticeably eclipsed the much publicized Sam Francis during the practice sessions and the classic game.

Coach Lambeau has used Eddie sparingly thus far in the season.
Eddie has to play under-study for the other great Packer fullback, Clarke Hinkle, and Lambeau has wanted to give him plenty of time to get used to the pro game before putting him on the heavy-duty list. It is quite probable that Jankowski will draw a big part of the fullbacking work against the Cardinals Sunday.

Goldenberg's Playing Guard

Buckets Goldenberg is having a great year so far this season in a new position, guard. Formerly a fullback at Wisconsin, he was shifted to blocking quarterback in the Packer offense, and late last season, after a severe leg injury reduced his running effectiveness, was shifted to guard, where his weight and blocking ability have made him a standout in games this season. Buckets also is slated to see lots of action in the Milwaukee game, for he is most popular with fans in the Beer city.

The Packers have a grudge to settle with the Cardinals Sunday, a 14 to 7 licking in the opening game of the season in Green Bay.
Coach Lambeau reports that practice sessions so far this week indicate the team will be at a physical and mental peak for the game, indicating that the Cards may be in for the same treatment the Packers dished out to the Detroit Lions in Green Bay last Sunday.

CARR NAMES OFFICIALS

Columbus—Officials for next Sunday's Cardinal-Packer game at Milwaukee were announced today by Joe F. Carr, National Professional Football league president.

They are Ed Cochran, Chicago, referee; Robert Karch, Columbus, umpire; R. J. Erditz, Oshkosh, headlinesman; and W. R. Smith,
Chicago, field judge.

Post Schedule for Intramural Tennis

Schedules for intramural tennis doubles tournaments for seniors, juniors and sophomores were posted today at Appleton High school.

Juniors and sophomores each have one team representing their classes. Powers and Blacher are the sophomore titlholders while Trautman and Morris represent the junior class. The teams will meet Friday to decide which will tangle with the senior team champions for the school title.

The senior schedule follows:
Schebliske and Choudoin versus Pleicher and Dewey; Acker and Re-der, bye; Wulgart and Arnes, bye; and Kohl and DeGroot, bye. Acker and Reider will meet the winner of the first match while Wulgart and Arnes will battle Kohl and DeGroot in second round matches.

309 series. Lemke hit a 309 series for the Lunchers.

Checker Lunch took three games from Team Five as Smith hit a 549 series on games of 156, 199 and 194 and Reuter totaled 511 pins. O.
Tornow topped the losers with a 462 series.

NEW LONDON GRIDDERS LISTEN TO COACH'S ADVICE

Here's a study in concentration on the part of two New London High school gridgers last night as the squad worked under lights in preparation for Friday's homecoming game in which Menasha will be the opponent. The two boys are, left to right, Bernard Stern, fullback, and Francis Meinhardt, end, and when the picture was taken they were listening to Coach Delbert Stacy's words of advice to the squad. Both boys are seniors and two of the huskiest lads on the squad. Although it is Stern's first year in football he runs and passes well. Meinhardt's other job besides playing end is punting. Game With Wolves Will Test Caliber Of Wildcat Eleven

Northwestern Begins Defense of Title Against Michigan Saturday

BY WILLIAM WEEKES

CHICAGO (U)—Nothing that happens when his boys start defending their Big Ten title against Michigan Saturday is going to surprise Coach Lynn Waldorf of Northwestern's Wildcats.

The Wildcats of 1936 stirred up a lot of surprises for Waldorf, most of them very easy to take. This year, however, there are so many green hands operating where veterans held forth in the big title drive, that he needs a couple of games to get an idea of what to expect. He figures Michigan will clarify the situation.

The Wolverines spent yesterday on fundamentals. Coach Harry Kipke also definitely gave his plan of converting Fred Jahne, a tackle, into a fullback.

At Illinois, Coach Bob Zuppke showed signs of optimism for the first time this season as his squad produced real drive in the offensive maneuvers with which he hopes to surprise Notre Dame Saturday. The Irish got another warning from Elmer Layden in the form of a forward pass defense session, indicating the Irish coach is certain Zuppke will come up with something unusual.

While Indiana hustled through a workout on running and aerial plays to be used at Minnesota Saturday, the Gophers were given another dose of fundamentals by Bernie Bierman, Wisconsin and Chicago, which tangle at Chicago, staged pleasing offensive showings in their final hard workouts.

Coach Mal Elward strove for more "umph" in Purdue's offense as the Boilermakers polished their game for Carnegie Tech's invasion Iowa, with Bradley coming up Saturday, continued to look ahead to the Wisconsin clash next week.
Coach Irl Tubbs checking over every item of the Hawkeyes' game, Ohio State, en route to its battle with Southern California at Los Angeles, whipped through a brief workout at Stagg field, Chicago's home park.

New London Homecoming Will Begin This Evening

Grid Game With Men-asha Friday Night to Close Celebration

New London—A huge bonfire pep meeting at the Washington High school grounds at 7:30 this evening will mark the preliminary to the annual school homecoming which will be held Friday night in conjunction with the Menasha-New London football game here.

A parade of more than a dozen floats prepared by high school organizations and groups will traverse the downtown business section starting at 7 o'clock tomorrow night and terminate at the city athletic park where the Northeastern Wisconsin conference game will begin under the lights at 8 o'clock.

A dance at the high school gymnasium after the game will climax the celebration. The high school Pep club is in charge of the entire affair. The School Daze publication will distribute a special 4-page homecoming issue in red ink this afternoon.

A spirited football squad took to the field for practice under the lights last night and though Men-asha is rated tops in the conference the Stagemen promise a stiff battle. The showing of West DePere over Menasha last week is an indication of how gamely the lighter and less experienced New London gridgers fought the potential conference champions here the week before.

The entire first squad will be on the field in good condition again Friday night except for Paul Knapp-stein, valuable guard, who has been kept out of the game the past several weeks because of illness.

Hayward and Stern are back and the whole pack appears in good fighting trim. Knappstein's place is open to any of a number of sophomore reserves.

Fundamentals have been stressed in practice the last week and Coaches Stacy and Charlesworth will run both squads through final signal drills this afternoon.

Double Windup on Fond du Lac Card

Richie Mitchell Contributes Six Scrappers to Boxing Show

An 8-bout boxing card featuring a double windup will be staged by the Fond du Lac Y. M. C. A. at the Armory E. Fond du Lac, Oct. 13. Richie Mitchell, former lightweight title contender, will contribute six of his brawlers to the show, according to Harry Kinasch, matchmaker. Two local favorites, Jimmy Richardson of Fond du Lac and Harold Fero of Oshkosh, are matched in one of the windup bouts at 115 pounds for five rounds. Mitchell's Henry Pomeroy of Milwaukee will meet Hans Ahl of Oshkosh in the other windup. Pomeroy has had 17 fights and was a golden gloves winner of Milwaukee in 1935 and '36 and was runner-up in bouts at Chicago this year. Ahl is but a 6 touch and can poke effectively with either hand. The pair will weigh in at about 135 pounds and scrap for five rounds.

The other bouts:
Ed Ruemer, Milwaukee, versus John Dux, Fond du Lac, 140-pound class; Lindor Leavitt, North Fond du Lac, versus Mike Menes, Milwaukee, 147 pounds; Jerry Gutman, Fond du Lac, versus Will Lee, Milwaukee, 138 pounds; Leo Joseph, Fond du Lac, versus Charles Veith, Chicago, 117 pounds; Johnny T. Hoff, Fond du Lac, versus Bob Hanlon, Oshkosh, 147 pounds; Jim Coyne, Fond du Lac, versus John Pernper, 150 pounds.

CASTLEMAN UNDER KNIFE
Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—Clyde Castleman, right hand pitcher for the New York Giants, was in a hospital here yesterday while his teammates battled the New York Yankees in the opening game of the world series. Hospital attendants said Castleman underwent an operation Monday on his injured back. His condition is satisfactory.

Reese, Nev.—Johnny Martin, 117, Stockton, Calif., knocked out Nor-Stock, 114, Montreal, 10.

RIPPLE SAFE BUT GIANTS LOSE OPENING GAME OF SERIES

Jimmy Ripple went to third base on McCarthy's single in the fifth inning of the opening game of the one-city World Series in New York, and then scored the lone Giant run on the next play. To offset Ripple's run, the Yankees scored eight to win the game in a walk. Ripple is shown here sliding into third, under Red Rolfe, Yankee third baseman. The Giant third base coach is on the sidelines.

Winning two games from the Lutz Ice company, O. K. Taxis landed in a tie with Mellow Brew for third place. O. Kunitz paced the winners with a 524 series. W. Strutz tallied games of 191, 201 and 198 to top the losers with a 590 series.

The Marquette varsity displayed a strong defense yesterday in a workout with the freshmen. Once or twice the yearlings, using Coyote plays, reversed around right and for 10-yard gains but otherwise they were unable to penetrate the varsity forward wall or elude the secondary on passes.

Dan Koster, 195-pound sophomore fullback, again was used at a half-back post. Harry Leysenaar, Don Stewart and Bob Kirschoff rounded out the backfield, while Capt. Ray Schenberger and Reggie Kodageli, first string halfbacks, remained on the sidelines with injuries.

The squad was strengthened by the return of Roy "Bunny" Schoemann, senior center, who made his first appearance in uniform since the Wisconsin game.

Newark Beats Birds 10-4 To Capture Little Series

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—If the New York Yankees don't win the world series they can't figure it on their International League from lands, the Newark Bears, for the batters showed 'em how to win on an and tucking away the little world series championship.

While the "Yankees" are out in front by a wide margin, the "Bears" have won their laurels the hard way — and proved their claims to the title of the "wonder club of the west."

They clinched the championship on a muddy diamond here last night by romping over the Columbus Red Birds, American association champs, by 10 to 4, for their fourth straight victory. The Red Birds had won the first three at

Age Triumphs as Grunters Chase Each Other Around Menasha Ring

BY RANDY HAADE

MENASHA—Nearly 300 people saw Grandpop Meyers take two straight falls from Henry Hill in the windup of the second wrestling show sponsored by the Twin Cities Union club at the S. A. Cook armory last night. In other bouts Chief White Cloud took two out of three falls by rough tactics from George Bennett and Louie Kodrick and Jungle Joe Bauer fought to a draw in the opener.

The final bout kept the crowd in an uproar with its fast and continuous action. Hill was the youthful villain and justice and age triumphed for Meyers. Both were generous in their use of flying mares, trotting on toes and various holds. Hill escaped from an arm scissors by biting and then took the offensive by leading Meyers around by his ears. The bout became a running race as Meyers pursued Hill in and out of the ring and around the referee. The first fall went to Meyers with a leg split after 25 minutes. In the second fall Hill devised a spider hold, tangling and choking Meyers in the ropes until the referee intervened. Billed as a wood chopper from Oregon, Hill used leg rolling tactics on Meyers, kicked, gouged, and battered his opponent around the ring. Meyers clung onto the rope and let go just as Hill tugged. Both fell to the canvas where Meyers obtained the second fall with a body press in 14 minutes. Both weighed 169 pounds.

Chief White Cloud added to his reputation as a villain and gave the crowd its first opportunity for some whole-hearted boos when he jumped from the ring when the going got tough with George Bennett. The sullen redskin took the first fall with an arm stretcher that forced Bennett to give up after 13 minutes.

Handy With Feet
Bennett showed some real wrestling ability and was particularly handy with his feet. His trips and leg scissors kept the chief in trouble and led to a double toe hold with which he forced the Indian to give up to win the second fall in 8 minutes.

Referee Joe Bush of Milwaukee had trouble forcing the Indian to release holds acquired through illegal rough tactics. Bennett retaliated with roughness in the third fall, tossing the Indian around with a series of flying mares and finally kicking him out of the ring. However, he fell into a hammerlock and conceded the match to the Indian. Chief White Cloud has made himself thoroughly unpopular in his two appearances and the crowd will soon be calling for a hero to give him his just deserts.

Louie Kodrick and Jungle Joe Bauer drew in a fairly slow bout in the opener. The crowd was dissatisfied, chiefly because the two men actually wrestled and didn't open up with the rough stuff until the last 5 minutes. Kodrick, weighing 150 pounds, carried the fight to his taller opponent who worked 172. Both snorted and grunted like jungle beasts as they tugged and hauled each other through the 30 minute time limit.

DADDY, HE SAYS THE WORLD SERIES ARE ALWAYS BETWEEN THE YANKEES AND THE GIANTS—HE SAYS STOOKEY WAS IN TROUBLE!

O MAJOR league pennant winners repeat the following year? Usually one of them does. But there are few modern instances of both teams retaining a flag. The Giants and Yankees clashed in three successive World Series: 1921-23. The Philadelphia Athletics and St. Louis Cardinals did it twice: 1930-31.

Cubs Blast 15 Hits To Beat White Sox In Chicago Series

Carleton Hurls 5-Hit Ball And Wins First Game From A. L. Team

BY WILLIAM WEEKES
CHICAGO—(AP)—The National league Cubs fitted up a rousing 15 hit assault with Tex Carleton's brilliant pitching yesterday to conquer their American league rivals, the White Sox, 7 to 3, and end their long victory famine in Chicago city series warfare.

The Cubs, second place team in the older league, and for the first time in years the underdog in this civic baseball strife, spotted the Sox a two run lead in the second inning then opened up with an attack that drove 37 year old Teddy Lyons out of action in the sixth inning, and did Bill Dietrich no favors the rest of the way. A crowd of 14,589 in Comiskey park, home of the Sox, saw the Southsiders vanquished in the first game of the series.

Cubs Take Over
Carleton, lanky righthanded ace who won 16 and dropped eight for the Cubs during their disappointing National league season, permitted only five hits. He yielded two runs in the second when Zeke Bonura was safe on Billy Herman's error. Jack Hayes walked, and Luke Sewell and Lyons followed with singles. Rip Radcliff singled in the third and Luke Appling walked, but from there on until the eighth, the six did not get a man to first base.

The second game will be played tomorrow at Comiskey park, with another pair of righthanders, Curt Davis for the Cubs, and Vernon Kennedy for the Sox, as the pitching choices.

Young Negro Looms on Heavyweight Horizon

Chicago—(AP)—Another young negro heavyweight with dynamite in his fists, Lem Franklin of Cleveland, is out looking for top flight opposition.

Franklin just about stole the opening boxing show of Chicago's indoor season at the stadium last night, with a 2-round knockout triumph over Max Zona, Chicago heavyweight who never had been flattened before.

In the main bout of the show which was presented before a disappointingly small crowd of 4,265, Harry Thomas of Eagle Bend, Minn., outpointed Max Marek of Chicago, in a bruising 10-rounder to win the Illinois heavyweight championship. The program, promoted by Mike Malloy, drew a gross gate of $7,200.

St. Norbert, Carroll Have Best Grid Teams

West DePere—St. Norbert's crack football team is determined to put up a tough battle but it is not "keyed up" for its game with the Pioneers of Carroll college, chief rivals in state football this season, whom it meets at Waukesha Saturday afternoon.

"The Knights will be out to win as they have in the three games played so far and as I hope they will be for all four tough games

COMMON SENSE CONSERVATION

BY L. H. KINGSTON
Green Bay—Hunters in southern counties say that it is pretty much a waste of time to look for pheasants on cultivated or pasture land, the place to find them is where the brambles grow the thickest.

In northern counties they tell you just the opposite, that brushy land well suited to our native grouse is not often liked by the pheasant.

The fact is that this bird wants neither all brush or all field and when he is not satisfied with the L. H. Kingston environment that some well-meaning sportsman plants for him in he moves. That is why he is so scarce in many properous farming communities where all the land has been put under the plow and also in northern zones where none of the land has been plowed. He wants a combination of both field and thicket. Being a ground feeding seed-eater he likes to be near grain fields and being a cautious rascal he wants briars and brambles to hide in.

We find by far the best pheasant shooting in older farming communities where life has become more leisure, where men have discovered that to make a living every square foot of soil need not be cultivated. Here fence rows are allowed to become overgrown with trees, bushes and vines, tall grass is left standing in old orchards and marshy swales are left unimproved.

Ten years ago we thought the pheasant was a sure-fire game bird for every type of countryside in every community. We planted pheasants everywhere and when they failed to show up we blamed poachers. Now we have come to realize that pheasants won't stay put unless cover conditions are good. Plenty of feed, both winter and summer is not enough. The further expansion of pheasant hunting in Wisconsin will depend much upon our success in getting landowners to leave their fence rows and waste lands grow into thickets of trees, shrubs and vines.

Mrs. Hill Moves To Quarter-Finals

Kansas City Star Ousts Past Champion, Favorite In Golf Tourney

Memphis, Tenn.—(AP)—After 12 years of fruitless sniping at the women's national golf championship, Mrs. Opal S. Hill of Kansas City entered the quarter-finals today, convinced that "this is my year."

The sturdy fairway veteran, mother of a 22-year-old son, reached the semi-finals in three other years "but something always happened. Maybe this 13th effort will be my lucky year."

In advancing to the quarter-finals, the Kansas City star ousted a former champion, Marion Hollins of California, and Marion Miley of Cincinnati, a pre-tournament favorite.

In matches today, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page of Greensboro, N. C., medalist, engaged Mrs. Dan Chandler of Dallas, Texas; Kathryn Hemphill, 1936 semi-finalist from Columbia, S. C., played Mrs. Charles Newbold of Wichita, Kan.; Patty Berg of Minneapolis met Mrs. Willard E. Shepherd, Los Angeles and Mrs. Hill met Mrs. Gregg Lufur.

Mrs. Shepherd crashed lanky Clara Callender of Del Monte, Cal., yesterday, 2 up, by winning the last four holes. Miss Berg trimmed Hilda Urbanke of Austin, Texas, 3 and 1, and Mrs. Newbold crashed Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare, Philadelphia, 2 and 1.

Missionary Society Outlines Plans for District Conclave

Clintonville—At a meeting of the Methodist Foreign Missionary society Tuesday afternoon at the church parlors, plans were outlined for the district convention to be held here Oct. 14. Twenty-one churches of the Appleton district will be represented at the convention, which is scheduled to open at 10 o'clock in the forenoon. Members of the Ladies Aid society of the local church will serve dinner at noon to the delegates, 125 being expected. The rest of Tuesday's meeting was devoted to a lesson on Mohammedanism in charge of Mrs. H. W. Anthes. The afternoon closed with the serving of a lunch by Mrs. T. C. Dix and Mrs. Robert Knapp.

A group of Clintonville women attended a meeting of the Marion Methodist Guild Wednesday afternoon, at which Mrs. J. Kissinger and Mrs. Kathryn Kloster were the hostesses.

Mesdames S. J. Tilleson, S. H. Sanford, M. O. Stockland and Robert Geffs were hostesses at a 1 o'clock luncheon Tuesday at Hotel Marston. Eleven tables of bridge followed during the afternoon, with a high prize awarded at each table.

S. O. E. club of the Eastern Star will hold its first meeting of the season Friday afternoon, Oct. 8 at the home of Mrs. Orville Kuckuk on W. Thirteenth street.

remaining. We can't afford to put any special pressure on this particular game." Coach Francis McCormick stated.

Carroll's team hasn't suffered defeat since the Knights downed it two years ago, and last year they smudged the St. Norbert record with its only defeat on a stiff eight game schedule. So there is little possibility that either team will be indifferent to the outcome of Saturday's game.

Scrimmage to Pick U. of W. Reserves

Eddie Misiak, Passer, Reinstated by Big Ten Committee

Madison—(AP)—"Tomorrow we'll scrimmage the reserves to pick the men who will make the trip to Chicago as substitutes," Harry Stuhldreher, University of Wisconsin football coach, said after yesterday's practice.

The first team went on defensive for a short time yesterday but Stuhldreher concentrated on offensive work.

The performance was spotty, backs breaking through for long gains and then bogging down for the next two or three plays.

Jim Riordan, Rhinelander, replaced Fred Benz at left end. Benz suffered from a muscle injury and Stuhldreher does not plan to scrimmage either he or Erv Windward, Milwaukee quarterback, who has a sore leg.

Again yesterday, Stuhldreher sought a reliable kicker of extra points. Johnny Doyle, guard and Bob Eckl, tackle, both sophomores, tried with little success. Earlier in the drill the first and second string backs were for defense for passes.

Stuhldreher announced that Eddie Misiak, junior halfback, has been reinstated by the Big Ten committee. Misiak was forced to take a reduced schedule of studies last year, because of an operation. He is one of the finest passers on the squad.

85-Year-Old Doctor Still Active in Civic Affairs

New London—A month ago Dr. G. T. Dawley was reelected chairman of the New London library board for the thirty-first consecutive year; in another month, Nov. 15, he will observe his eighty-fifth birthday, the oldest member of the board in point of age and years of service. He has been a member of the board of trustees since its inception back in 1895 when New London's library association was organized.

CIVIC LEADER

Only two other men have headed the board in its 42 years of existence: W. H. Hatten, the first president, and W. J. Hamilton, then superintendent of New London schools who later went to Two Rivers. Dr. Dawley was placed at the head in 1907 and has remained there since while other members of the board have long ago relinquished their early interests in the institute. He also served an overlapping period of 28 years on the school board.

Still displaying a lively sense of humor in his declining years, the alert, keen-minded physician likes to recall the early history of his dominant civic interest.

When the city considered the offer of the Andrew Carnegie Foundation of $10,000 for a library building in 1914, Dr. Dawley played an important part in the acceptance of the present structure. The plans submitted by the city were unfavorable to the foundation because the size and facilities exceeded the appropriation.

The city could add none but the building could be erected if the 20 per cent fees of the architect were eliminated. So under pressure, Dr. Dawley volunteered to act as architect and in that capacity supervised its construction and completed the building within the amount of the donation. Victor, Thomas, local architect, drew the plans.

The donation covered only the bare building. Heating, lighting and furnishings were acquired through the generosity of civic organizations. The lobby desk was built in by W. H. Hatten. $3,000 to purchase the lots for the building were secured through popular subscription.

The early collection of volumes which was called the library was constantly transferred from a location in one business place to another until finally in 1895 the library was established in upstairs city hall offices with a total of 1,031 volumes. Later again the library was juggled from one building to another until the present structure was realized. Now there are over 8,000 volumes on the shelves with a circulation of more than 40,000 during the past year.

Dr. Dawley came to New London to practice medicine in 1891 and was fully active until several years ago. He still does some physician's work. He established his offices in the parlor of his home at 129 St. John's place about 15 years ago.

Although he will observe his eighty-fifth birthday anniversary next month, Dr. G. T. Dawley, above, is serving his thirty-first consecutive year as chairman of the New London library board and has been a member of the body since 1895. He also served for 28 years as a member of the school board. (Post-Crescent Photo)

the dark ships

BY HULBERT FOOTNER

SYNOPSIS: Neill, a young federal agent, quarrels with Janet, a Baltimore girl, because she won't break a date with Prescott Fanning. Neill suspects him of being a crook. To check up, he finds Fanning at his hotel bar and they get acquainted. Next day Neill wakes up, realizing he's been dooped. Janet, Fanning and Fanning's yacht are gone. A mysterious phone call tells him Janet's in trouble on the yacht at Absalom's Harbor. Neill rushes to the fishing village and rows to the yacht after dark. In a locked cabin he finds Fanning shot dead and Janet unharmed, but in a faint with a gun beside her.

Chapter Nine

A HIDEOUT FOR JANET

NEILL set his jaw and considered. He was on the other side now. He was hunted instead of the hunter. Quite a different thing. No powerful department to back him up now. Strictly on his own.

Where could he find Janet a hideout? The obvious thing was to hire a car and drive to town; but a car could be traced and in that case his usefulness as her defender would be over. He must be on the spot in order to discover the truth of this affair. Where could he put her under cover in this unfamiliar neck of the woods? Suddenly he thought of the dark ships up river. "Take me away! Take me away!" murmured Janet.

"Okay, Jen. We're getting out."

Running back into the after cabin, he snatched up her velvet wrap where it lay on a chair. It was a flimsy garment. Apparently that and the gauzy evening dress were all she had. Not enough to keep her warm in an open boat. He picked up a traveling rug that lay folded on a seat locker and, returning to the saloon, wrapped her in it. She clung to him. Carrying her up on deck and down the ladder, he deposited her in the stern seat of the skiff.

He paused to make sure that everything was straight in his mind. Must take food. He started back aboard the yacht.

Janet raised up, instantly wild with terror. "Don't leave me!"

"Only to get something to eat. Back in a jiffy."

In the pantry adjoining the dining saloon on deck he found a refrigerator stocked with cooked food of various sorts. He packed everything hastily in a tin bread box along with the bread and ran out on deck again.

"Hurry! Hurry!" murmured Janet in the skiff alongside.

"Half a moment!"

He gave a hasty glance in the direction of the shore. All quiet there. Remembering a flashlight he had seen on the book-case in the saloon, he ran down to get it. While below he thought of something else. In the after cabin he dropped to his knees beside the dead man and went through his pockets. Finding the little photograph of Janet that Fanning had taken from him the night before, he transferred it to his own pocket, and hastened up on deck.

Casting off the painter of his skiff, he ran out the oars and pulled towards the open water.

As Neill rowed along with the lights of the village on his left, it was still only about nine o'clock.

Church Officers Protest Cost of Sidewalk Project

Council Names Committee To Confer on Improvement Question

Neenah—Officers of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church, 200 N. Commercial street, submitted a protest to the city council at a meeting Wednesday night at the city hall against paying for installation of a new sidewalk.

The communication stated that a new sidewalk is necessary since the installation of new pavement on N. Commercial street, for the distance from the pavement to the sidewalk is now about 14 inches, not permitting doors of automobiles parked near the curb in front of the church to open.

The communication stated that since there was a change in grade with the installation of the new pavement the city is obligated to pay for the new sidewalk.

City Engineer A. G. Prunuske told the council that there was no noticeable change in grade of the new street. He explained that the street has been widened to within a few inches of the sidewalk and that before the new pavement was installed there was a large but gradual incline from the sidewalk to the curb of the former brick pavement.

Rules of the City

City Attorney John W. O'Leary told the council that according to the statute property owners are liable for installing new sidewalks when permanent improvements, such as the N. Commercial street project, are made.

A committee comprised of Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs, the city engineer and members of the public improvements committee of the city council was appointed to meet today with church officials and settle the matter.

It was reported at the meeting that other property owners along the street where new sidewalks are required are willing to stand the cost of installation. The cost is comparatively cheap, 12 cents a foot, it was said.

The city, however, will stand the cost of paving for that portion of the street from the sidewalk to the curbing which is only a few inches in width.

Work on Island

Alderman Carl Loehning, chairman of the sidewalk committee, reported that the sidewalk repair crew has completed installation of sidewalks on the island and has now moved to the other side of the city.

He reported that the repair program, a WPA project, turned out to be much bigger than expected, and he recommended that the council continue the program. He also reported that the committee is investigating the purchase of the motor street grader and that a report will be made at a November meeting.

It was also reported that the Soo Line has been notified to repair the crossing at Main street and Wisconsin avenue and that a fill at Church street and W. Wisconsin avenue be repaired.

Alderman Loehning also reported that the city engineer will draw plans for the addition to the city tool house. He said that a new building is advisable and one large enough for the city water works to store its materials. It has been suggested that the brick taken from N. Commercial street be used in the proposed building.

A resolution was adopted for issuing of annual interest coupon bonds against property owners on North Water street from River street to Abbey avenue to cover special assessments for installation of sanitary sewers. The property owners will be given five years in which to pay the special assessments.

Expenses incurred by the city during the month of September amounted to $26,032.78, according to a report to the council by the finance committee.

Of the 273 bills during the month the larger ones were water, $4,933.69; light, $1,033.31; power, $1,000.66; files for engines, $678.15; conduits on N. Commercial street, $1,410.52; sidewalk material, $750; extra labor for N. Commercial street paving project, $1,539.67; and paving of N. Commercial street, $6,000.

Neenah Must Show Need for Second Bridge Over Fox

Commission to Hold Hearing Within 2 Months, Mayor Says

Neenah—The city must prove to the highway commission that there is a necessity for a second bridge in Neenah over the Fox river when the commission holds a public hearing here within the next two months, according to a report made to the city council at a meeting Wednesday night by Mayor Edwin A. Kalfahs.

The mayor reported that a petition to the commission for a second bridge over the river from Wisconsin avenue to Clark street within the approximate location of Pine street to Third street has been filed at Madison. A resolution for petitioning for a second bridge was adopted at the last meeting of the council.

Mayor Kalfahs said that in a conference with Tom Davlin, chairman of the commission, and other commissioners at Madison recently which was attended by the mayor, City Clerk H. S. Zemlock and City Attorney John W. O'Leary, Davlin said that the necessity for the bridge must be proved at the hearing before its construction will be considered.

Suggest Count

Several suggestions for obtaining information relative to the need for the second bridge in the city were made by the aldermen, including conducting of traffic surveys over the present bridge, showing development of the city in that section, descriptions of traffic congestion at certain times of the day, collecting data on the distance required for high school children living on the island to get to school, and others.

Although the members of the commission made the city officials no promises relative to the construction of the second bridge they said that a thorough investigation would be held, the mayor said. Sixty days after the petition has been filed the commission will set the date for the public hearing to be held at the city hall.

The state engineer informed the officials that state as well as county aid can be secured in building the bridge with the cost being split in three ways, one-third to be assumed by the city, one-third by the county and one-third by the state, he reported.

DISPLAYS PART OF COLLECTION

Looking over a small portion of her collection of toy dogs is Miss Dorothy Korotek, above, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Korotek, 409 Sixth street, Neenah, whose hobby is collecting the miniature china and calico dogs. For more than five years, Miss Korotek has been adding to her collection which now numbers over 135. When a little girl, she used to bring home stray dogs but her mother and father declared one live dog was enough and so her interest in dogs was transferred to the hobby of collecting toy dogs. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Neenah Girl Makes Hobby Of Collecting Toy Dogs

Neenah—Ever since the summer that she moved down for three months to win the gift of a bull terrier, Miss Dorothy Korotek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Korotek, 409 Sixth street, has been interested in dogs but because her mother and father think one live dog is enough in any household, Miss Korotek has transferred that interest to a hobby of collecting miniature china dogs.

More than 135 dogs from dachshunds to Salukis, in wood, china and calico, have been collected during the last five years by Miss Korotek. The hobby of collecting the toy dogs started when a friend gave her a Russian wolfhound in china and since that time, her collection. Three new dogs joined the large family last week when, on a shopping trip, Miss Korotek purchased a spotted, long-eared china dog and two others, also of china.

One tiny China dog came to Miss Korotek from Catalina Island and another from San Francisco, Calif. One funny looking toy dog came from Chinatown in Chicago and her friends still doubt that it is supposed to be a dog.

Just recently, Mr. Korotek returned from a trip with another dog for his daughter's collection, a soap carving of Pluto who delights in children in his comic strip life. Hand-carved bull dogs and hounds, China scotties, sheep dogs, Poles, scotties, cocker spaniels, Elkhorns and Beagle hounds keep company together in peace on the shelves in Miss Korotek's rooms.

Rex, the bull terrier that is the only live dog in the house, is nearly 12 years old now but is Miss Korotek's favorite of her "dogs." Next in importance to Rex is the brown bloodhound made from pipe cleaners.

Among the collection is a dog cast by a man in Iron Mountain, Mich., who casts iron deer and dogs for large gardens and estates, a china pointer who looks alive, a brown glass hound, two black scotties and many pups that belong to sets.

Double Insurance On City Property

Increase Protection for City Hall From $18,900 to $40,000

Neenah—The insurance on the city hall was increased by the city council at a meeting Wednesday night from $18,900 to $40,000.

Emil Harder, chairman of the finance committee, reported that because of the increase in the value of the contents including tax rolls and cards, which have recently been placed in the building, the insurance should be raised.

The building was formerly insured for $18,000 and the contents for $900. The increase in insurance will boost the protection on the building to $30,000 and on the contents to $10,000. The insurance policy is of three years duration.

A contract was awarded to J. C. Jensen to paint the rooms on the second floor and the fire escape of the city hall when the contractor submitted a low bid of $163.60 for the job.

Two other bids were submitted, one by Harry Niles for $466 and the other by W. A. Brown for $341. Niles' bid quoted a cost of $396 for painting of the rooms and $20 for the fire escape, and the Brown bid quoted a cost of $260 for painting of the rooms and $72 for the fire escape.

With the aid of her father and mother, Miss Korotek has added to

Hundreds of Youngsters Aided by Visiting Nurse Program Last Year

Neenah—Twelve health centers and 72 dental clinics in Menasha and Neenah were sponsored by the Twin City Visiting Nurse association during the year with 273 children given care and examination in the health center and 268 children given free dental care according to the association board which this week opened its annual drive for funds to further this type of work.

Each child brought to the health center is carefully examined by physicians in charge and the mother is given suggestions as to diet and general care for each youngster, the board members stated. If the child is overweight or underweight, the mother is advised as to what foods to emphasize and what foods to omit from the daily menu. If these suggestions are followed, the results in a few weeks are astonishing and gratifying to both mother and physician, it was stated.

If any serious defects or abnormal conditions are observed the mother

Kiwanis Club Gets Promises of $900 Toward 'Iron Lung'

Neenah—A. C. Haselow, president of the Neenah Kiwanis club, reported at the noon meeting Wednesday at the Valley Inn that $900 has been pledged toward the purchase of an "iron lung."

The Kiwanis club is sponsoring the purchase of the artificial respirator which will be donated to Theda Clark hospital. Letters have been sent to nearly 50 manufacturers in the Twin Cities asking for their cooperation in securing the "iron lung." About 15 have replied and pledged the $900.

Mr. Haselow said that securing of the artificial respirator is more certain now than it has been since the campaign started.

At Wednesday's meeting Gordon R. McIntyre, sports editor of the Appleton Post-Crescent, was guest speaker. He gave the Kiwanians a brief outline of the functions of a newspaper and talked on sports.

Menasha Squad to Use New Plays in New London Game

3 Regulars Watch Drill From Sidelines: Will Be Ready for Game

Menasha—The Menasha High school varsity tried a lot of new plays in practice yesterday with varying success in preparation for the game at New London high school tomorrow night. Three of the regulars merely watched the play, favoring left injuries. They were Buksyk and Henk in the line and Drucks in the backfield. The injuries are not sufficient to keep them out of the New London game.

The second string piled up quite a few of the varsity plays, Westberg in particular backing up the line well from the fullback position. Co-captain Eldon Grimm reported for practice late and worked out with the second string line. He spilled a number of plays sent his direction.

The varsity again was guilty of poor ball handling, fumbles occurring quite regularly on lateral passes. Osiewalski and Weideman alternated at the first string left end position.

Plays will be called in the New London game by Mervin Schneider, all-conference center last year. Signals will be still called by Quarback Heiss. Heiss was guilty of calling a few bad plays in the West DePere game, particularly when he called for a double lateral deep in his own territory with a one-point lead.

A final light session was scheduled for today with polishing on the offense, a little drill on pass defense and some work on kickoff and points after touchdown.

'Stop Berken' Will Be Neenah Cry in West DePere Tilt

Christoph Lauds Spirit of Rockets in Practice This Week

Neenah—"Stop Berken" is the battle cry of Neenah High school's Red Rockets this week as the grid-der train for their third Northwestern conference game with West DePere Saturday afternoon at West DePere.

The team engaged in a scrimmage session Wednesday afternoon with the Appleton Reds, and Coach George Christoph reported that his team turned in a good performance. He especially lauded the team's spirit in practice this week.

The grid mentor has been changing his line-up continuously this week, endeavoring to plug up the weak spots in the line, the guard positions. He has also been trying new men in the backfield.

Kowertwitz has reported for practice, and the coach expects that he will be in shape to be assigned to one of the guard positions for the West DePere game. Volkell is also doing duty at a guard berth.

LaBombard at Guard

LaBombard, formerly a substitute center, has also been shifted to guard. Staffeld and Anderson are holding down the tackle positions this week, with Blank and Levan-doski bidding for the berths.

The coach is seeking to find a good running blocking guard to replace Vanderwalker who suffered a broken collar bone in the Shawano game last Saturday. The other regular guard, Co-captain Dale Dodge who sustained an injury two weeks ago, is still not in condition for duty.

In the backfield the coach is working Allen at a halfback position, and Zimmermann is also working on a flank position.

Injuries Weaken St. Mary Gridders

Drill Strenuously for Game Saturday Afternoon at Kaukauna

Menasha—St. Mary gridders were handed a practice under actual game conditions yesterday in preparation for the game at Kaukauna Saturday afternoon. Injuries again necessitated a switch in the lineup. Lignosky, 210-pound tackle, injured his leg in practice yesterday, Dave Spalding, who has been working at guard, returned to his tackle post.

The running game of the St. Mary team should be strengthened with the return of Clayton Hopfensperger. He took part in the scrimmage yesterday but again strained his weakened ankle. The starting backfield, however, will probably be the same as has started the other games. Schipferling, Grade, DeYoung and Rescher.

Missed assignments have been the chief cause of the lack of consistency in the Zephyr attack. Men have been drilled consistently on plays this week so that the blocking assignments will be letter-perfect.

Kaukauna is the home town of Coach Marvin Miller and the St. Mary gridders will be shooting for a victory. It will be the first meeting between the two schools. Kaukauna has developed rapidly in past weeks and will probably have an edge on the St. Mary squad in weight.

The Zephyr have averaged a touchdown a game but still have not scored a victory. They were defeated in the opener by Appleton and since were held to two ties by St. John of Little Chute and by Kimberly.

160 Men Working On School Project

Finish Pouring Cement for Swimming Pool in Basement

Menasha—Work on the new Menasha high school building is progressing satisfactorily with 160 men employed on the project. The cement pouring for the swimming pool in the basement of the gymnasium was completed this week. Bricklayers will complete the brick walls of the gym this week also. Work has also started on roofing of the gymnasium. The rest of the buildings are completely roofed.

In the auditorium workmen are building the brick stage walls and have completed the rough ground floor slab. Lathing and plastering will start in that section next week.

In the academic section the tile setters are still working on the corridor floors. The plasterers are expected to complete their work in the rooms on all floors this week. Wooden doors and wooden trim are being set by the carpenters in the rooms of the academic section.

The work of the plumbing and electrical crews goes on at the same time. Fixtures are being set by the plumbers in the academic unit.

The St. John branch will be open Thursday, Oct. 21, from 9 a. m. to 12 o'clock and the Butte des Morts branch will be open at the same hours on Friday, Oct. 22. Miss Ruth Comments will have charge of the St. John branch and Mrs. M. G. Auer of the Butte des Morts branch.

the dark ships

There was plenty of life in the ice. He could see shadowy figures passing under the street lights, while the sounds of dogs barking, motor horns and male laughter from the porch of Longcope's store reached his ears. Further along he could hear music coming through the open windows of the moving picture theater.

At Absalom's Point he lay on his back for a moment debating whether it might not be better to row across the bay. It was a calm night and he could have made it in safety. Nobody would think of looking for Janet over there. But it was 15 miles and he couldn't possibly get back before daylight. Nor visit her there. No. Better the ships. So he turned the point and rowed on up the river, passing along the other side of the village.

The sight of Janet bowed and bent under her blanket wrenched him with pain. After what she had been through what could he say to her? To have tried to make light of it would sound like mockery. In the end it was Janet who spoke.

"Where was I when you were on the boat?"

Neill thought her mind was wandering. "Never mind him," he said softly. "He won't trouble you any more."

"Did you kill him?" she asked simply.

"Don't want to talk about it," said Neill.

"All right," she said, perfectly peacefully. "Nothing matters as long as we are together."

He hated to think of leaving her one in her present condition. But there was no help for that. It would be impossible to trust anybody he didn't know to take care of her. Davis county, Maryland, was a peninsula remote from the great world and he judged that its people best were inclined to be suspicious of strangers. Somehow or other he must take care of Janet and save her too.

"I'm so thirsty," she presently murmured like a child.

Neill's heart sank for he had forgotten water. He looked along the village front. It would not be too far for a stranger to obtain water. He went to somebody's well. It could lead to awkward questions and he had nothing to carry water.

The main and only road into the village came down along the river before striking across the back to the harbor in front of Longcope's. Midway along this road a distinguished lighted front of a store. One could always buy something to drink. In front of the store the usual little pier ran out to the river. The water was shallow on this side and it was long pier. Janet could remain hidden in the dark at the end of it. He hesitated. There was a terrible risk in landing now. If he were seen, he would be remembered. However, it had to be taken. He waded in and tied the skiff to the end of the pier.

"What's this for?" she asked crossly.

"I'm going to get water for you."

"No, no. I don't want water."

"We've got to have water."

"Can't I come with you?"

"Your dress would attract too much attention."

"Ah, don't be long," she said with a catch in her breath.

He waded over the creaking planks, climbed the bank, crossed the road, and entered the store. It was a much smaller and tidier store than Longcope's. The little old man who kept it was grateful to the unknown for customer. Neill bought two bottles of carbonated water.

On his way out of the store a sedan coming from the direction of town passed rapidly and slid to a quick stop a short distance beyond. Neill had an uncomfortable feeling that this stop was in some way connected with himself. Somebody was looking out of the back window, the face merely a grayish blur through the glass.

There was nothing he could do about it. He hastened down the bank and out over the pier. Janet let out a shaking breath of relief at the sight of him. The car went on and turned the corner. Presently a car came back, but Neill couldn't tell if it was the same one.

Who Could It Be?

They went on, and finally passed the last houses of the village. Now there was a dark field between the road and the river. Neill had rowed upwards of two miles, but he was still only some hundreds of yards from the yacht across the neck of land. Suddenly from the dark shore a light flashed out over the water and searched the river up and down. It was evidently a strong electric torch held in somebody's hand.

Neill pulled the skiff's head around and rowed further out into the river. He couldn't be sure whether the light had picked them up, and a nasty anxiety attacked him. Why should anybody stand on the shore casting his light over the water unless he were looking for them? And who could be looking for them? Who could guess that they were about to pass that spot? The light went out, and nothing came of it then, but Neill's anxiety remained.

He rowed on, keeping about a furlong off shore. The opposite shore was invisible in the dark. Here and there at long distances a light showed in the window of a farmhouse, and up river the red light of a gas buoy twinkled off and on, marking some shoal. With every pull of Neill's oars, two little eddies of phosphorescence swirled astern. A soft breeze from the south sprang up.

Janet exclaimed: "What's that?"

Looking over his shoulder, Neill saw the masts and the funnels of the four great ships rising against the stars. "The German ships turn-

Hunters Warned Against Careless Use of Firearms

Medical Society Outlines Hazards and Treat- ments for Injuries

Madison—"A hunting we will go"—that is the ditty being sung by many hunters this week, for Saturday, Oct. 9, is the official opening day of the duck hunting season.

Starting Saturday and continuing through December, there will be many hunters pursuing game. The hunting sport is a fine one as it may be enjoyed in the outdoors. Business men, factory workers and others who are literally cooped up during the week can get out for a few days of pleasure, relaxation and exercise in the fresh air during the hunting season.

Tragic Side

"The hunting season has a tragic side as well," warned the state medical society in its special bulletin on this subject. Many avoidable accidents have happened on hunting trips such as in the case of guns, accidentally discharging, and causing death or permanent injury to a fellow hunter or to the person who carries the gun. Then too, sprains of joints and scratches from bushes, thorns, trees, fences, particularly barbed wire fences may cause a great deal of trouble. In the case of sprains, x-rays should be taken as soon as possible to determine the seriousness of the injury, as there is a possibility of the sprain actually being a fracture.

Scratches or cuts should be given immediate first-aid treatment as infection is apt to set in in an open wound, and blood poisoning may be a result. Such injuries should be sterilized at once and protected from further infection by the application of a clean dressing. Particular caution should be exercised in caring for the deep puncture wounds to be sure that they are thoroughly cleansed and sterilized. This type of wound should heal from the inside to the surface. Emphasis is placed on this type of wound as it is the most ideal type for the development of lockjaw.

Gun Accidents

"Each year there are many casualties and fatalities which result from gun accidents. There are many ways in which hunters can help to reduce accidents of this kind. For instance, they should not drag a gun through a fence or thick brush; they should not allow the hunting dog to jump on his master, as he might accidentally catch his claws in the trigger guard; they should not carry a loaded gun in the car; they should not drag guns out of boats. There are only a few of the ways in which fatalities result from carelessness in handling firearms.

"A timely warning to the hunter might be, 'Get out your red flannels and wear them!' The hunting sport brings with it many hours of exposure to all kinds of weather. Warm clothing should be worn at all times to protect the hunter from colds. Loss of sleep, improper meals and long hours of exposure to cold weather, lower the resistance of the body to colds and pneumonia. At the first sign of a cold the hunter should leave the blind and take immediate steps to cure the cold. The best way to do this is to go to bed at once. The patient should then drink a full glass of hot liquid each hour. Fruit juices and hot water are most advisable for this drink. The diet should be light and the system kept open. Seventy-five per cent of the pneumonia cases are the result of neglected common colds.

"When you start out on your hunting adventures this year, remember to take extra care and precaution to avoid unnecessary accidents."

Sentences Concurrent Unless Changed by Court

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau
Madison—Two or more sentences imposed by a court at the same time run concurrently unless the court at the time of the sentence specifies that they shall run differently. Attorney General Orland S. Loomis advised the state board of control today.

Loomis also informed the state tax commission today that when the village assessor establishes residence in another community, a vacancy is created in his office, but his assessment as an officer of the first village remains valid.
